Flames Trap Passengers

Truck-Train Crash Kills 12

EVERETT, Mass. (AP) — A Boston & Maine one-car diesel passenger train smashed into a fuel oil truck stalled with frozen brakes on a street crossing early today. Twelve persons died as flames engulfed the train and the truck.

Officials said there may have been up to 35 persons aboard the train. No definite check was available on the number aboard the local run.

Chelsea Fire Chief Herbert Fothergill said most of the victims were trapped in the train for 20 minutes until the fire was put out. He said firemen used their bare hands to extricate the passengers.

A fireman said one door was blocked "because there was a body lying on the other side."

'So Much Smoke'

Policeman Ralph DeVito said he and officer George Stewart "tried breaking the windows with our night sticks but that wouldn't work. We couldn't open the door because there was this guy trying to get out the door with his head stuck through the window.

"We pushed him away but then there was so much smoke we couldn't see."

Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston said it received nine dead from burns and four injured. Whidden Hospital in Everett said it received two dead and 10 injured.

Chelsea Naval Hospital received one dead and two injured. One injured was taken to Chelsea Memorial Hospital.

Everett is an industrial community on the outskirts of Boston.

Stalled on Tracks

Police said the driver of the fuel truck, Raymond Bouley, 29, of Billerica told them his brakes froze as he reached the crossing on Second Street and the vehicle stalled.

He said while he was trying to restart the truck, the gates came down on both sides of the crossing and he heard the train approaching. He said he ran down the tracks and tried to flag down the train with his jacket.

Bouley was treated for shock at Whidden and released.

Graham Tells of Ambush in Truce

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham said Tuesday he talked with a soldier who was wounded in a Christmas Day cease-fire ambush.

Arriving from a 10-day tour of Vietnam, Graham told a news conference that five soldiers were ambushed during the truce period while they were eating a Christmas dinner. He said three were killed and two suffered injuries.

Tax Hike May be Difficult to Avoid

Large Cut in Budget Only Alternative

By JAMES R. POLK

MADISON (AP) — Gov. Warren P. Knowles must slash as much as $150 million or more off state spending requests this week or face at last a tax increase he has tried to elude.

The governor has sealed himself inside the executive mansion to work with fiscal aides from dawn past dusk on the $1.2 billion rough draft of the budget he will offer to the 1967 legislature.

There is evidence that the secret administration estimates of of how much tax revenue Wisconsin will have available to bankroll the budget will fall short by $125 million to $245 million.

Knowles has pinned his public hopes repeatedly on the prospect that a booming economy would bring in enough money to avoid the first major tax increase in 10 years. But now the zoom has gone out of that boom.

8 Per Cent Growth

The spending requests handed the GOP governor are 35 per cent above the present state budget. The most optimistic estimates on how much the economy will grow next year stop below 8 per cent.

Knowles' staff has labeled the normal holiday lull between Christmas and New Year's Day as "decision week" as the governor pares and prunes the spending programs.

Stated starkly, the decision that must be made pivots between a tax hike or heavy slashes in proposed spending.

The spending cuts might have to slice deeply into education, especially the universities. The biggest budgets and the bulging spending boosts, by and large, are those asked by higher education.

On the other hand, any suggestion of a tax increase could

State Patrol Checks

1,730 Unsafe at Any Speed

MADISON (AP) — State highway patrolmen say a check of 4,455 cars since mid-December disclosed 1,730 instances of substandard equipment.

Maj. Charles Litkey of the state patrol said Tuesday that citations were issued to 25 drivers for such violations as lacking a driver's license or vehicle registration, and that 957 tickets were issued ordering correction of equipment.

The 1,730 instances of improper equipment include some cars having more than one violation, he said. Most of the equipment violations concerned brakes, horns, directional lights, tail lights and stop lights, he said.

Gov. Warren P. Knowles asked the State Highway Patrol to conduct spot checks throughout the state in an effort to slow the state's record-setting traffic death toll.

The patrol, Litkey said, is making checks in rural and urban areas, and is employing roadblocks in many instances. Officers are working overtime, he said, producing an additional 6,400 man-hours of enforcement requested by Knowles.

Eleven cars normally used by supervisory personnel have been added to the spot check campaign, and will be returned to the supervisory staff after the New Year's holiday period, Litkey said.

Valley Hit by Near Blizzard; Six-Inch Snowfall Expected

High Winds Making Driving Hazardous Throughout State

Strong winds whipped a heavy snowfall through the Fox Valley area this morning, causing near-blizzard conditions, according to the U.S. Weather Bureau in Green Bay.

As much as two inches of new snow fell in parts of central Wisconsin by noon today. Weather forecasts said six or more inches of new snow were likely to fall by the end of the day.

The widespread storm began early this morning in southern Wisconsin and moved steadily northward to cover most of the state by 8 a.m. Predictions said driving snow will diminish into snow flurries tonight and Thursday.

City and county street and road crews started sanding and clearing pavement shortly after the storm began in an attempt to stay ahead of the anticipated accumulation.

Road crews' work was made more difficult by easterly winds of 20 to 25 miles per hour. Weather bureau officials said the winds gusted to more than 30 m.p.h. at times, cutting down visibility and increasing the force of the near blizzard.

Hazardous Driving

Driving conditions were reported hazardous in most of the state. Outlying roads are particularly treacherous in spots sheltered by trees and other obstructions. Clarence Brownson, Outagamie County highway commissioners, today said the heavy winds would keep rural highways generally free from snow drifts until the ditches and roadsides become filled.

If the winds and snowfall continue, Brownon said, drifts can be anticipated on rural roads.

Most Appleton streets were covered by the snow at noon. Sanding crews started work about 7 a.m. today.

Late this afternoon and tonight the winds will shift to the north but retain their velocity, reports from the weather bureau said.

As the winds switch direction, there will be a slight drop in temperatures, the weather bureau reported. Barometric pressure was reported dropping in Appleton late this morning

Large Quake Strikes Chile

Heavy Casualties Feared in Small Town Along Coast

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—A violent earthquake rocked northern Chile early today and heavy casualties were feared in the nitrate port of Taltal, the center of the upheaval.

The Chilean news agency Orbe said 80 per cent of the buildings in Taltal were destroyed and first reports listed one dead and three injured. But this was a preliminary figure. The town, 700 miles north of Santiago, has a population of about 7,000.

The earth shocks were felt over a wide area and were reported strongest in the provinces of Tarapaca and Antofagasta.

The quake was registered in Santiago at 3:20 a.m. EST and by the U.S. Coast and Geodetic Survey in Washington 10 minutes later. The latter said its observatory at Honolulu had issued a warning of a possible seismic sea wave.

Remarks Upset Vatican

Spellman Still Wants to Win

SAIGON (AP) — Francis Cardinal Spellman stood firm today on his call for nothing less than U.S. victory in Vietnam despite reports that the Vatican was upset by his remarks.

Francis Cardinal Spellman, archbishop of New York, is aboard the U.S. carrier Enterprise off the North Vietnamese coast Tuesday. (AP Wirephoto)

"Whatever I said. I stand by it," the 77-year-old Roman Catholic archbishop of New York told a newsman before ending his Christmas visit with U.S. servicemen in Vietnam and flying to the Philippines.

Although the Vatican would make no official comment, unofficial sources there said the cardinal's statement that anything less than victory in Vietnam "is inconceivable" caused concern and perplexity. These sources said such declarations seemed to be out of keeping with the efforts of Pope Paul VI to encourage a negotiated end to the war.

'Militant Sermons'

The Soviet government paper Izvestia charged the cardinal's "militant sermons" were "in sharp dissonance with recent statements of Pope Paul who appealed for an end to the bloody killing." North Vietnam denounced the cardinal as a "reactionary under a priest cloak" and charged he had "loudly clamored for the intensification of the U.S. aggressive war."

The cardinal's statement, made during a Christmas Eve sermon, also referred to the Vietnam fighting as a "war for civilization."

En route to Saigon's Tan Son Nhut Airport today, he told patients at the U.S. Army's 3rd Field Hospital: "All America should be grateful to you. The men in the armed forces have saved our civilization in past years. You are preserving it."

Cardinal Spellman, who is Roman Catholic military vicar of the U.S. armed forces, was accompanied by U.S. Army physicians throughout his six-day visit. He declared several times this was his last trip abroad to visit U.S. servicemen at Christmas. It was his 16th consecutive Christmas visit to the forces overseas.

S. Vietnamese Report Killing 89 Viet Cong

Search-Destroy Mission in Delta Uses Parachuters

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Thousands of South Vietnamese troops fanned out across canal-laced rice fields deep in the Mekong Delta today and reported killing 89 Viet Cong in two days.

The large-scale search-and-destroy operation was launched Tuesday by ground troops, helicopter-borne units and the Vietnam war's first combat parachute jump in at least two years.

The multiregiment force of Vietnamese infantrymen, paratroopers, armored cavalrymen and Popular Force units descended on a Viet Cong stronghold in Chuong Thien Province 126 miles west-southwest of Saigon. American troops reportedly will be deployed in parts of the delta in the near future.

No Opposition

The paratroopers jumped from 33 planes — 13 U.S. Air Force transports and 20 C47s of the South Vietnamese air force.

Vietnamese headquarters said the paratroopers ran into no opposition when they jumped. Spokesmen declined to say if any of the jumpers were injured. In a previous large-scale jump in April 1964, 40 per cent of the paratroopers were injured in jumping.

A Vietnamese spokesman said government forces killed 29 Viet Cong in the opening phases of the operation and by late today

Annual Associated Press Poll

Vietnam War Again at Top of Nation's News Pages

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Vietnam war, for the second straight year, has been voted the top news story of the year by Associated Press member newspapers and radio and TV stations.

It is a guerrilla war, a helicopter war, a war of Operation Masher, Operation Texas, Operation Hawthorne, Operation El Paso, Operation Hastings, Operation Sgt. Howard, Operation Attleboro.

It is a war Defense Secretary Robert McNamara says our side is winning, and a war we keep trying to stop. Ambassador Arthur Goldberg told the United Nations the U.S. would stop bombing North Vietnam "the moment we are assured North Vietnam would act to reduce its support of the war in the south." Secretary of State Dean Rusk and the President called repeatedly in 1966 for peace talks.

U.S. jets started bombing oil depots near Hanoi and Haiphong June 29. China said American jets shot down a Chinese plane inside China; the U.S. said it was 20 miles from the border over Vietnam. U.S. pilots were paraded in Hanoi and there was a brief threat they would be tried as war criminals. On Aug. 9, U.S. planes bombed civilians in a village and one of our own Coast Guard cutters.

In August, American forces in South Vietnam passed the 300,000 mark. In September, the total American deaths since 1961 passed 5,000.

This was a year scarred by apparently motiveless murders, several of them mass murders. On July 31, Charles Whitman, 24, killed his wife and mother, then climbed to the top of the University of Texas library tower in Austin and began blasting with three rifles, a shotgun and two pistols.

In 80 minutes he killed 14 strangers and wounded 30. An Austin patrolman climbed to a platform above Whitman and shot and killed him.

The off-year election and its heavy wins for the Republican Party is the year's No. 3 story. The GOP picked up three seats in the Senate, 47 in the House of Representatives and eight governorships to bring the party's total to 25.

Some winners, Gov. George Romney in Michigan, Ronald Reagan, elected governor in California, and Charles Percy, elected senator from Illinois, are being eyed as possible presidential timber for 1968.

We sent up Gemini 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12. With astronauts taking walks in space, tethering to target satellites and splashing down right beside recovery ships.

5. Another shocking mass killing was that of eight student nurses in Chicago, just after midnight July 14. A young man entered a house used as a dormitory by student nurses at South Chicago Community Hospital, bound the nine girls there and strangled or stabbed to death eight of them.

Corazon Amurao, from the Philippines, saved herself by hiding under a bed.

Intensive Manhunt

After an intensive manhunt, police on July 17 arrested Richard F. Speck, 24, seaman and drifter. He has pleaded innocent to eight murder indictments.

6. President Johnson in late October went to Manila for a conference of nations allied in the Vietnam War — the United States, South Korea, South Vietnam, Thailand, Australia, New Zealand and the Philippines. National leaders signed a communique pledging the United States to quit

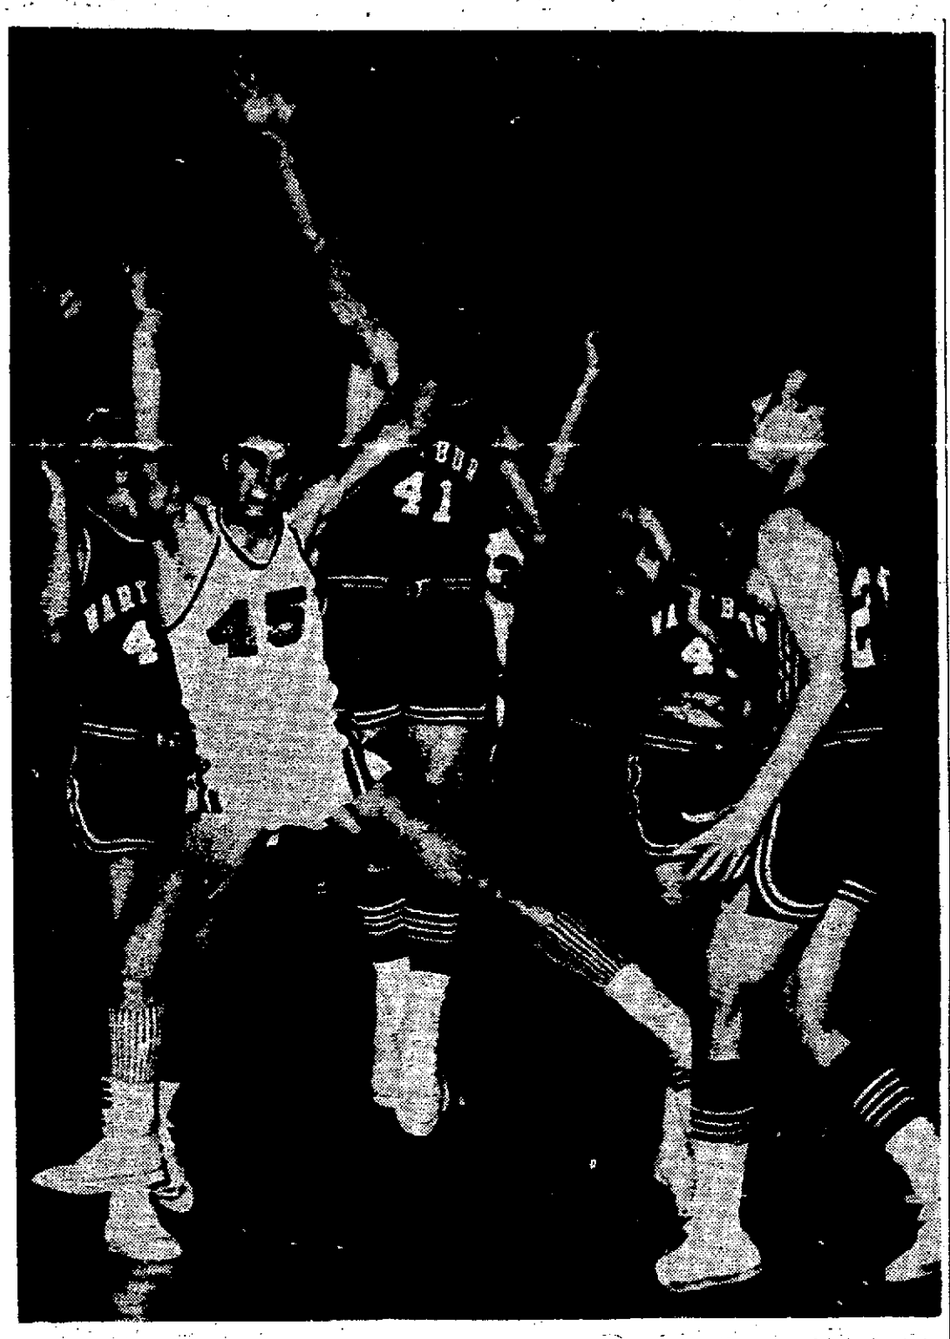
Vikes Open Title Defense Against North Park Quint



Carthage College's Jan Roland (45) defects a shot by Wartburg's John Hearn (45) during Tuesday's basketball action in the Lutheran Welfare Tournament at Park Ridge, Ill. Carthage, which lost a 71-60 decision, will compete in the Lawrence Holiday Tournament Thursday and Friday. (AP Wirephoto)

St. Norbert, Carthage Will Meet

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent Sports Editor

Boasting a lineup that includes two unbeaten teams (Lawrence University and North Park College), former champion St. Norbert and tourney-tested Carthage, the 1966 Lawrence Holiday Basketball tournament promises to be wide open.

Lawrence's Vikings (2-0) open defense of their title against North Park (4-0) in the 7 p.m. battle Thursday. The opening night's finals (9 p.m.) will bring together St. Norbert (2-2) and Carthage, of Kenosha (4-4).

After Friday night's consolation game — between the first night losers — The tourney championship will be decided (starting at about 9 p.m.).

Lawrence and St. Norbert have 3-1 records for the two years of participation in the tourney. The Knights beat the Vikes in the 1964 finals (82-64), and Lawrence gained revenge, 88-82, last year.

Tougher Tasks

St. Norbert and Lawrence seemingly face tougher tasks this time in their bids to reach the finals for a third straight time since North Park and Carthage bring impressive credentials as successors to Milton and Northland. North Park (located in the Northwest part of Chicago) has brushed aside Trinity, Elmhurst, Illinais Tech and Lake Forest. Carthage will come into the Vike tourney with nine games under its belt — more than twice the number of any other entry.

Outstanding 1965 tourney performers who are back include Lawrence's Dick Schultz and St. Norbert's Tom Rankin. Schultz was named the meet's "most valuable player" last year, as he scored 51 points in the two Vike victories.

Rankin, former Appleton Xavier star, was named to the all-tournament team despite being only a freshman.

Other sparklers include Carthage's Jerry Parks, who is averaging nearly 23 points per game this season and North Park's high-scoring Dave Franzen.

The Clyde Rusk-coached Lawrence team, which has not played a game for almost three weeks, features a balanced cast. Brian Bock leads the scoring parade, with a 20.5 average. Next come Schultz (16); Steve Simon (15) and Bob Townsend (13). The fifth starter will be Don Brooke (3.0) or Mike Andrews (8.5).

The Vikes displayed strong rebounding (Simon had 25 in the Carroll tilt) and good defensive play in victories over Milton (75-72) and Carroll (91-81).

Effective Defense

The tourney features a number of high-scoring teams, and the Vikes proved last year, they can score with the best. They

Has No Trouble With Spies, Vince Tells Tulsa Newsman

Don't Worry About Us, Bay Mentor Says

BY MAL ELLIOTT

TULSA, Okla. — They say Vince Lombardi is a tough man. Everybody in pro football accepts it as fact.

To a newsman in Tulsa where the Green Bay Packers are putting in four days of drills in preparation for their National Football League playoff game Sunday with Cowboys in Dallas, it is a proven fact.

"You're going to interview Lombardi?" asked a fellow newsman. "Lots of luck."

Told to call the Packer coach's hotel at precisely 4:45 p.m., this reporter obliged. Getting him on the line was almost as tough as the interview. He was in the middle of a flood of calls and the operator was holding others.

Previous Projects

Once on the line, there was a trickle of information on various subjects. The intelligence which Lombardi exhibits with his maneuvering on the field is not evident in his rapport with the press and the public.

But here's the interview, word for word, and perhaps it will reflect Lombardi's thinking or his mood four days before the big game.

Is secrecy a problem, coach?

"Naw, at home we practice right out in the open all the time."

Is this a special measure you've put in just for the playoffs?

"What's that? Yes, yes. We don't have any secrecy."

Something Special

Will you install something special for the playoffs? Is that the reason for this?

"No. No, we just don't like to be overrun with people. At

Weather Scare Over; Packers Greeted by Sun

Starr, Thurston Will be Ready for Sunday, Vince Says

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY —The weather scare is over in Tulsa.

Fearful of a 4-inch snow Tuesday night, the Packers discovered sunshine and near warmth for today's important practice for the championship game in Dallas Sunday.

"It was 25 and clear this morning," Coach Vince Lombardi said via telephone, "and it could get into the 50s this afternoon."

The Packers were greeted with a snow covered Skelly Field Monday and then worked in slush and rain Tuesday. Today's turnabout "will enable us to get in a good workout," Vince said.

Excellent Shape

"We're all in excellent condition now," Lombardi said, adding that Bart Starr and Fuzzy Thurston, the only two injured, will be ready to go.

With good weather, Lombardi said "we'll go ahead with our original plans." There had been some thought given to moving out if the snow had developed. The team will work in Tulsa Thursday and Friday, then leave for Dallas, arriving in Texas about 2:30 p.m.

Bart Starr turned into something of a weatherman Tuesday, predicting that "this will blow itself out." It did.

Files Suit to Halt Blackout Of Super Bowl

LOS ANGELES (P) — A local televison blackout on the Super Bowl pro football game Jan. 15 drew court action from a football fan and censure from the City Council Tuesday.

In a suit filed in Federal District Court, Alan Minter, a stockbroker and fan, said he took the action because the television blackout "is not in the best interests of the people of the Los Angeles area."

Councilman John Ferraro introduced a resolution calling the blackout "an outright snub to the residents of the City of Los Angeles."

Adopted by Council

Ferraro's resolution was adopted unanimously by the council.

The game, to be played in the 93,792-seat Coliseum, will match for the first time the champions of the National and American Football Lagues.

Both leagues are named in Minter's suit as are the Columbia and National Broadcasting Companies which will televise the game nationally.

Judge William P. Gray will hear arguments on the motion Jan. 6.

The motion is aimed at lifting the ban.

The suit claimed the game is an assured sellout and that television blackouts are permissible only if a home team is one of the participants.

"Published reports," noted Ferraro, "have estimated the affair will be a sellout, grossing $1 million, the richest football gate in history, making a TV blackout absolutely pointless."

U. S. Nationals Lose To Canadian Six

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — A powerful Canadian National hockey team downed the U. S. Nationals 8-1 Tuesday night in the International Hockey Tournament.

To Get 'Nice Guy' Citation at Banquet

Starr Will Receive Award

"An award never fit anyone more appropriately than this", were Chairman George Kloes' words as he announced today that Bart Starr, quarterback of the Green Bay Packers, would be recipient of the "Nice Guy" award at the second Annual Red

Bart Starr

Smith Sports Award Banquet Jan. 24.

Bob Elson will be featured speaker, with Charlie Grimm acting as master of ceremonies Red Smith will be on hand to present his award to Little Chute's Marty Lamers. John Torinus, president of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce and editor of The Post-Crescent, will deliver the welcoming address.

Starr reached the pinnacle of his career this year as he was voted the National Football League's "Most valuable player" in leading the Packers to another Western Division championship. He was top passer with a 62.2 per cent completion record and in addtiion led the league in average yards gained per pass while his percentage of interceptions (1.2) is the lowest season mark in league history. It betters his own 1964 record of 1.47.

Bart came to Green Bay as 17th draft choice in 1956 from the University of Alabama and labored in a reserve role until Vince Lombardi took the helm of the team in 1959. He started the last four games that year, winning them all, and has been signal caller ever since with the team finishing no lower than second in the last seven years. The modest Starr's performance is often overshadowed by the team's success which is the way he would have it; however, this is the third year he has won the NFL's passing title — an achievement accomplished by only three others in league history. Starr has a career completion record of 56.6 per cent and also owns a NFL record of 294 consecutive passes without an interception.

During the off-season, Bart pursues a promotion business in Green Bay and devotes much of his time and energy to charitable organizations. He recently received the Jaycees Distinguished Service Award.

Bruhn's Resignation Selected as Top 1966 Sports Story in State

By KEN HARTNETT

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The end of the Milt Bruhn football era at the University of Wisconsin has been voted the No. 1 sports story of 1966 in Wisconsin.

Bruhn resigned suddenly near the end of a third straight losing season. He had narrowly escaped being fired the year before.

His departure after 11 seasons at the Badger helm triggered a nationwide talent hunt for a successor. The hunt ended closer to home with the university choosing 36-year-old John Coatta to rebuild Wisconsin's football fortunes.

Former Quarterback

Coatta, a former Badger quarterback, had been Bruhn's defensive coach and top aide.

Wisconsin sportswriters and sportscasters had a bumper crop of stories to choose from in their annual year-end poll.

Running a close second to the Bruhn story was the apparent death blow dealt Wisconsin's antitrust suit against baseball. In a surprise decision, the State Supreme Court held that the state had no power to enforce its antitrust laws against organized baseball.

The legal brew drew 233 points in the balloting to 244 for the Bruhn story. Points are awarded on the basis of 10 for each first place vote, nine for each second place vote, etc.

The decision knocked the props from under the state's legal campaign to force the National League to place a team in Milwaukee—a city stripped of the sport by the departure of the Braves to Atlanta after the 1965 season.

The state's only recourse was to the U.S. Supreme Court and the nation's highest court reject-

Las Vegas Odds Favor Packers

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (A) — Alabama was made a 9½ point favorite over Nebraska in their Sugar Bowl game Jan. 2 in the odds posted Tuesday by the legal bookmakers in Las Vegas.

The otherodds had Tennessee by 6½ points over Syracuse; Georgia 7 over SMU; Purdue 14 over Southern California; Georgia Tech 2½ over Florida; Green Bay 7 over Dallas, and Kansas City 3½ over Buffalo.

Willie Calls Cowboys Well-Balanced

Experience With Tarkenton May Help Against Meredith, Says Davis

Post-Crescent News Service

The explosive Dallas Cowboys, who stand ominously athwart the Packers' path to a second straight National Football League championship, have been called the best equipped team the Eastern Conference could possibly have mustered to challenge the Pack's dominion.

Square-shouldered Willie Davis, who, in contrast to those who pontificate from behind a typewriter, has come by his opinions the hard way, heartily concurs.

The Cowboys, the Packers' highly articulate defensive captain, declaims, "have very capable personnel at every position, which is what you have to have to win in this league. Sometimes, a club may get away with being a little short at a couple of positions; but if you can have a well-rounded club, you can take the pressure off the key men who are carrying your ball club."

'Very Potent Offense'

"And the Cowboys are that kind of a team — they are very well balanced. They'll pose quite a situation for us Sunday," he added soberly, "no question about it."

Analyzing the Texans, he pointed out, "They have proven they have a very potent offense — an offense that score points and also can gain a lot of yards, both on the ground and in the air. And they have great speed — in Hayes (Bob) alone. We are very much aware of the potency of their attack."

"Meredith (Don) has had a great year, and so has Hayes. And so has Reeves (Dan). He's

Villanova Upsets Michigan State

Second-Rated Louisville Wins; Illinois Stops Arizona Quint

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Niagara may never face UCLA on the basketball court, but its coach, Jim Maloney, thinks his team may have been beaten by the best team in the nation.

"Louisville," said Maloney, "has got one of the best clubs I've seen in a long time."

It may be that Maloney was making allowances for Louisville's having beaten Niagara 98-73 in a first-round game at the Quaker City tournament at Philadelphia, but Lew Alcindor and Co. notwithstanding, he may be right at that.

Wes Unseld, the 6-8 junior who is making a serious bid for All-America recognition, scored 20 points and hauled in 26 rebounds for Louisville, No. 2 in the Associated Press poll.

In other games in the tournament, Villanova upset 10th-ranked Michigan State, 66-63, behind a tough zone defense. Princeton beat Bowling Green 87-73 and Syracuse took LaSalle 88-84.

UCLA was idle during the first night of competition in the Los Angeles Basketball Classic but Illinois beat Arizona 93-77 behind 22 points by Dave Scholtz and Southern California took Arkansas 70-67 with Bill Hewitt scoring 25 points for the Trojans.

A Record Low

In first-round games at the Motor City Classic at Detroit, Miami of Ohio held Western Michigan to a record low for the event of 45 points and won a 51-45 decision. Fred Foster had 24 points for Miami. Tulane beat host Detroit, 98-94 after coming back from a 12-point deficit at halftime

In the Hurricane Classic at Miami Beach, Fla., Western Kentucky moved past Holy Cross 90-84 with Clem Haskins and Dwight Smith each scoring 23 points. Ed Siudit of Holy Cross had 37 points. Miami upset Pennsylvania 82-78 with Mike Wittman scoring 32 points.

Stanford beat DePaul 88-75 in the All-College Basketball Tournament at Oklahoma City with sophomore Don Griffin scoring 28 points. Oklahoma City took Massachusetts 89-82 with Gary Grey s 29 points leading the way.

Iowa State won a first-round game at the Big Eight tournament in Kansas City, beating Oklahoma State 64-56. John McGinigle scored 24 points. Kansas State beat Nebraska 98-81 behind 29 points for Dennis Bergholtz and 26 for Earl Seyfert.

Oregon State, champion of the Far West Classic for 10 years, lost an opening-round game to Indiana 71-60 at the Portland, Ore., tournament. Washington surprised St. Louis University 91-82 behind 23 points for Dave Carr.

New York's Holiday Festival resumes tonight with Providence meeting Northwestern and Rhode Island facing St. Joseph's of Philadelphia in semi-final games.

Snow Doesn't Stop Chiefs' Aerial Workout

Dawson Sharp in Drill Preparing for Championship Game

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A heavy snow Tuesday didn't stop the Kansas City Chiefs from practicing their passing game as they prepped for next Sunday's AFL championship game with the Bills at Buffalo.

"This could be a blessing for us," Coach Hank Stram said. "We may be playing under these conditions up there."

Quarterback Len Dawson whipped off 13 completions in 18 attempts, and the Chiefs also ran 11 rushing plays in the 45-minute training period

In a warmup drill precedng practice, Dawson threw 63 passers and standby quarterback Pete Beathard arched 45 more. Dawson looked sharp, and his favorite target, Otis Taylor, leaped for one spectacular catch, tumbling in the snow without losing the ball.

Obviously, the Chiefs will resort to the air if their rushing attack, best in the league at 162.4 yards a game, stalls against Buffalo.

And since the Bills own the best rushing defense in the league, the Chiefs may well have to pass most of the game

Dawson's passing statistics are impressive. During the season, he completed 56 per cent of his attempts to lead the passers, connecting on 26 touchdown passes and averaging 8 9 yards per attempted passes.

Taylor and Chris Burford, the Chiefs' versatile receiving combination, each caught 58 passes this season, Taylor for 1,297 yards and eight touchdowns, Burford for 758 yards and another eight TDs.

Navarino's Ski Jumping Meet Slated

The 17th annual Navarino Ski Jumping Tournament will be held at 2 p m. Monday on Pues Hill. It is sponsored by the Navarino Winter Sports Club.

Approximately 60 riders are expected from Nekoosa, Wisconsin Rapids, Iola, Stevens Point and Navarino.

The hill record is 85 feet and held by three riders, Haze Diemel, Jr., Mike Johnson and Jim Harvorth.

Play Against Tarkenton May Help Packers scored a lot of touchdowns, which is kind of like the name of the game — putting points on the board."

"I think their offensive line also has improved considerably this year and, from what I understand, has given Meredith real good protection, which is one of the most important things for a quarterback to be able to throw the ball, of course. They also are very good at blocking on the run, I understand.

'Met the Challenge Before'

"We know their defense is very capable, too, but as a member of the defensive team, that is not my main concern. We'll be pulling for the offense, naturally. We'll be going out to the ball as often as we can to give them opportunities to score, but we'll have to let the problem of the Cowboys' defense to them and we'll take care of the other."

And how did he expect the Packer attackers to fare? The 32-year-old loyalist replied without hesitation, "Our offensive guys have met the challenge before."

Some have suggested that Meredith operates in somewhat the same fashion as the Minnesota Vikings' Fran Tarkenton, long a Packer nemesis. Willie, who has spent an occasional long afternoon in pursuit of Frantic Fran, agrees, at least to a point.

Antidote for Dallas?

"He moves around well enough that he places a premium on the defense keeping him contained," Davis admitted. "He seems to be a very capable runner."

"The fact that we've seen a guy like Fran may help us, I don't know," he chuckled. "But we hope so."

The 245-pound Grambling alumnus is hopeful the Packers have an adequate antidote for the Cowboys' offensive swift. "We have outstanding speed defensively ourselves, which typifies the kind of team we are. We're not overbearingly large, so we have to rely on speed."

How does he compare the current opposition to the Pack's previous title rivals? Noting the Eastern titlists are reminiscent of the Cleveland Browns, 23-12 victims of the Packers in last year's championship game on the snow-spattered turf of Lambeau Field, the perennial all-pro observed, "There are some similarities between them."

"Cleveland had a real outstanding ground game, just as they did this year, with Jimmy Brown and Ernie Green, and, of course, a real great passer in Ryan (Frank) and great receivers in Warfield (Paul) and Collins (Gary)."

'A Different Challenge'

"Whereas, when we played New York a few years ago (in '61 and '62)," he pointed out, "they were primarily a passing team"

Did he feel that the Cowboys' success against the Pack the last two years (the Bays have had to settle for seven field goals and a lone touchdown following a fumble recovery on the Dallas 7-yard-line in their last three meetings) would have any effect on the upcoming struggle?

After pondering briefly, Davis quietly replied, "As far as I'm concerned, each ball game you play in this league represents a different challenge. It's kind of like throwing all past records out. . . I really don't think it'll make much difference, either way."

By the same token, he is convinced that, though this will be the fifth title game appearance in seven years for the Packers, he and his colleagues will be anything but blase going into Sunday's showdown.

"I don't feel there in any room for us to develop any attitude about this ball game except do-or-die," he asserted. "For each ball club, it's been six months since we started. When you get this far along, you don't want to go out and not play to the best of your ability. To me, anything less than the best effort we can give at this time is something I can't imagine"

Emerson Whips Krishnan

Aussies Retain Davis Cup

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Australia has retained the Davis Cup, the top prize in amateur tennis, for the third straight year after a determined bid by upstart India.

Roy Emerson, the Aussies' ace, clinched the Cup by beating Ramanathan Krishnan 6-0, 6-2, 10-8 in today's opening singles match. Fred Stolle then completed the Australian triumph by outlasting game Jaideep Mukerjea 7-5, 6-8, 6-3, 5-7, 6-3.

The Australians, who have won the Davis Cup in seven of the last eight years and 14 of the last 17, were expected to clinch it easily after Emerson and Stolle had swept their opening singles matches Monday.

But the Indians came back with a stunning upset in Tuesday's doubles, beating Tony Roche and John Newcombe, possibly the world's best team. Krishnan and Mukerjea turned in the victory after dropping the first set.

Still India's chances seemed doomed and Emerson ended any hopes the underdogs might have entertained, beating Krishnan. Then Stolle whipped the determined Mukerjea.

A crowd of 10,000 jammed Kooyong Stadium in humid, 90-degree heat to watch the final two singles. About 300 people required medical attention because of the heat and hundreds others left the stands for shaded areas.

Mikita, Hull Pace Victory Over Rangers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bobby Hull is still playing catch-up with teammate Stan Mikita, but the Chicago bomber has settled a score with New York goalie Ed Giacomin.

Mikita, the National Hockey League's runaway point leader, ended Chicago's month - long scoring famine against Giacomin with a pair of goals Tuesday night before Hull's late tally gave the Black Hawks a 3-2 victory over the first-place Rangers.

The victory snapped New York's winning string at three games and sent the second-place Hawks within two points of the league leaders.

In Tuesday's other game, Detroit tied Boston 4-4 on Gordie Howe's third-period goal, ending a streak of 14 successive road losses.

Royals Sink Nine Straight Baskets, Defeat Detroit

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Nine in and nine out — that was the story of the Cincinnati Royals' latest success in the National Basketball Association.

The Royals made nine straight field goals at the start of the second period, while Detroit missed its first nine, and rolled to 131-123 victory

In the only other game, Len Wilkens tipped in a rebound with two seconds left to give the St. Louis Hawks a 113-111 victory over the Baltimore Bullets.

Don Ohl of Baltimore had tied the game by sinking a free throw and a basket with 10 seconds remaining.

MU Quintet Faces Dayton Tonight, Loyola '5' Friday

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Marquette University takes a recently improved basketball image on the road this week against a couple of fellow independents.

The Warriors' 5-3 record is tested tonight at Dayton after which Marquette faces Loyola at the Chicago Stadium Friday.

Marquette opened its season with three consecutive victories, then dropped three in a row-one of them by two points to South Carolina in the Milwaukee Classic.

In their last two tests, the Warriors defeated Fordham 82-58 for third place in the classic, and rolled over Minnesota 74-61. The pair of triumphs contained signs of improvement.

Senior Paul Carbins, 6-foot-6, started the season troubled with a stiff knee. His rebounding has improved to better than six per game, and his scoring is also rising.

Senior Bob Wolf, a 6-foot - 2 guard, tops Marquette scoring with a 21.3 point average He is connecting on 54 per cent of his shots from the field and is the eighth highest scorer in the school's history.

No Trouble With Spying, Says Lombardi

home we can control it. We can't control it here."

So the important thing is just to remove the distractions?

"That's all."

Have you been able to do that?

"Yes, yes."

Have you had any problems with spies in the past?

"No. If they spy we don't give a damn. If they don't know what we're doing they gotta be out a their minds. Ha, ha, ha, ha."

Much Scouting

How much scouting do you get to do?

"We exchange all the pictures we want to exchange. So, scouting is not important."

So you won't be making any changes?

"Well, we've run so many things over the year it doesn't make much difference. They're familiar with what we're doing as we are with them."

Do you anticipate any special problems in defensing the Cowboys?

"No, we do not. Just the execution of it We expect the usual problems we will get."

Do you anticipate any special defensive.

"Oh, we can't go into that. You want to know too much . . ."

No, I don't want details . . .

"Well, sure we expect specials and we expect them to have a special offense and we'll have a special offense and they'll have have a special defense and we'll have a special defense."

Stay in Tulsa

You have decided now that you'll stay in Tulsa for the practice?

"Well, right now we are, yes. There are a lot of good places. We must have 100 messages here. All wanting us to get out of Tulsa. I have to agree with them. Ha, ha, ha, ha."

Have things pretty well smoothed out for you now?

"Yes, we're all right. Just don't worry about us. We don't worry about us. I don't know why anyone else would be worried."

There has been a lot in print about this year's club being your best and deepest.

"Oh, I have not said that."

What is your opinion?

"That's up to you to say, not me."

What's your evaluation . .

"I don't give an evaluation. never have."

Evaluate Dallas

No, I was going to say what is your evaluation of the Dallas club?

"Dallas club? Very excellent football team. They've got great speed, great defense."

Have you ever had to cover anyone as fast as Bob Hayes (Dallas receiver)?

"We have others with, maybe not quite that speed, close enough. When you get that fast it doesn't really make much difference."

Have you ever played this type of club before in the playoffs?

"You have to play that kind of club to get into the playoffs."

They're pretty typical of a championship club?

"I would think so. I think anybody playing for a championship has got a good football club."

Expansion Club

How do you feel about Dallas' progress of being an expansion club and being in this playoff?

"Well, it took them seven or eight years, whatever it is. That's about normal. There are some teams that have been in this league all their lives and haven't made the playoffs yet. So it certainly is a great accomplishment for them."

"But that doesn't mean that the teams that haven't made it don't have good clubs, too. It takes a great deal of good fortune, from everybody, though, to get into the playoffs. We have to have it, they have to have it. The ball has to bounce just right. There are a lot of good football teams that never make it."

And injuries play a big part in it?

"Injuries play a great deal in it, that's right. We've had our share (this year) but nothing real serious, thank goodness. Last year we had a great deal more injuries and we still made it."

Hornung's Neck

This trouble with Paul Hornung's neck is a permanent sort of thing, is it?

"That's not for me to talk about."

You've built your reputation on ball control and defense. . .

"That's kind of changed a little bit. We haven't had as much ball control this year as we've had in the past. We've struck from way out most of the time this year.

But you have relied heavily on your defense.

"No, not any more than anybody else. You can't win in this league any more without defense. Any team that gets into the championship has a good defense."

You don't feel you have any edge on Dallas in defense?

"No, I do not."

Carthage Loses To Wartburg

La Crosse Bows In Overtime To Loras Cagers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

La Crosse State and Carthage College lost first - round decisions in basketball tournaments Tuesday night. Each faces competition tonight for a third-place trophy.

La Crosse, hosting its sixth annual holiday tourney, was overcome 98-88 by Loras of Iowa in overtime after Lincoln of Jefferson City, Mo., downed Hamline of Minnesota 94-69.

In the Lutheran Welfare Classic at Park Ridge, Ill., Wartburg of Iowa swept past Carthage 71-60 after Augustana of Rock Island Ill., came from behind to halt Capital University of Ohio 76-66.

Dominican of Racine, host for the Belle City Classic, is paired against Stevens Point State while Dubuque University meets Lewis of Lockport, Ill., in first-round games today.

Lincoln, defending champion of the La Crosse invitational, picked up its ninth victory in 10 starts, and is averagng 103 points a game this season.

Loras meets Lincoln for the title tonight, and La Crosse faces Hamline.

Loras, now 5-4, led by up to 12 points in the first half. La Crosse cut the lead to 44-41 at halftime, and pulled ahead 66-63. A four-point surge put Loras ahead in the final 19 seconds, but La Crosse managed an 80-80 deadlock at the end of regulation play.

Rex Hester scored 25 points for Loras and teammate Joe Hajec added 22. Dave Neuberger, one of five La Crosse players shooting in double figures, collected 20 points.

Carthage's loss to Wartburg deprives the Redmen of a chance to meet Augustana in the Park Ridge finals. Augustana a fellow member of the College Conference of Illinois with Carthage, overcame a 36-31 deficit and beat Capital University of Ohio 76-66.

Wartburg meets Augustana tonight for the title. Three players scored in double figures for Wartburg and took a 41 - 26 halftime lead.

High man for the game was Carthage's Jack Lutz with 21 points. Teammate Jerry Parks added 14. Carthage meets Capital for third place.

Cowboys Stage Secret Drills

Packers Hold 8-2 Edge In Games With Dallas

BY JACK HAND

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Dallas 21, Green Bay 3. Bob Hayes beats Herb Adderley twice on TD passes from Don Meredith. Bart Starr completes only six of 21 passes and is intercepted twice. Hayes runs 85 yards with a punt return but the touchdown is wiped out by a penalty.

No, this is no prediction. This is what happened Aug. 20 before a sellout crowd of 75,504 in the Cotton Bowl. It was only an exhibition game but it gave the Cowboys the idea they can handle the Packers Sunday in the National Football League title game.

"I'm sure they put a lot of emphasis on the game," said Coach Vince Lombardi of the Packers after the contest. "But that's no alibi. We certainly didn't come down here to lose. They looked great."

Control Game

Defenses controlled that summer game just as they probably will dominate Sunday's big one at the Cotton Bowl. The Cowboys dropped Starr and his backup man, Zeke Pratkowski, five times for losses of 57 yards, intercepted three passes and recovered two fumbles.

Dallas residents also recall another exhibition game in 1965 when the Cowboys held the Packers without a touchdown and won 21-12. Green Bay had to settle for three field goals by Don Chandler and one by Paul Hornung that August evening.

The Packers never have lost a regular season game to the Cowboys in four meetings since Dallas joined the NFL. In fact, they hold an 8-2 edge in all games, including the exhibitions.

However, the 1965 regular season game was close enough to give the Cowboys a healthy shot of self-respect. Green Bay won it 13-3 but the only touchdowns came after Don Perkins fumbled on the Packer seven.

Once again the Cowboys gave Starr fits. He was held to minus 10 yards passing and completed only four of 19.

Before tapping out on the Packers it might be wise to remember that Green Bay has scored just one touchdown—and that a fumble—in the last three games against the Cowboys.

Dallas must be planning some surprises for Lombardi's men because they are holding closed workouts this week with even the press barred from the field.

Coach Tom Landry meets newsmen twice a day and makes his players available for interviews but the rest is a dark secret even deep in the Heart of Texas.

Ken Boyer Happy About Contract Despite Pay Cut

NEW YORK (AP) — Third baseman Ken Boyer has signed his 1967 contract, taking a pay cut of about 10 per cent, the New York Mets said Tuesday.

"I'm very satisfied, very happy with it," Boyer said via telephone from his St. Louis home to a news conference held in Met Manager Wes Westrum's office in Shea Stadium.

Boyer, the National League's Most Valuable Player in 1964, made a reported $65,000 last season and said the new contract called for not to much under $60,000. He is still the highest paid player on the club.

ed a plea for review of the case.

While major league baseball was becoming a dead letter in Wisconsin, major league football was healthier than ever with the Packers gaining a third National Football League title in five years by whipping the Cleveland Browns in the championship game at Green Bay.

The Green Bay victory in the January title game was the third-ranked story in the poll with 224 points.

Another Wisconsin football team—Whitewater State —throttled 10 straight opponents and won a berth in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics' annual Champion Bowl in Tulsa, Okla.

The Warhawks bowed to a mighty Waynesburg, Pa., team in the Dec. 10th battle for the national small college championship, but still won fourth place in the balloting and 135 points.

Bow to Lincoln

The amazing saga of tiny Alma High School won fifth ranking and 127 points. The Rivermen from the banks of the Mississippi cruised unbeaten into the semifinals of the state basketball tournament before being downed by Milwaukee Lincoln, the eventual state champion.

Bart Starr, Wisconsin's 1965 "Athlete of the Year," finally got the national recognition he deserved in 1966. The Green Bay quarterback was the spark that drove the Packers to another Western Conference title as he completed better than 60 per cent of his passes.

The cool quarterback from Alabama was voted the most valuable player in the National Football League and the Starr story was voted the sixth best of the year in Wisconsin with 126 points.

A story about another Packer —Jim Taylor — took seventh place in the poll with 117 points. The star fullback disclosed that he had reached a salary impasse with Coach and General Manager Vince Lombardi and was playing out his option.

Playoff Victory

Golf took eighth place with 51 points. Carol Jean Sorensen of Racine earned the spot with a stirring playoff victory that gave her the Wisconsin Women's Open crown a second straight year.

In ninth place was with 45 points the achievement of Jim Baier of River Falls State. The fullback not only rewrote the record books of the Wisconsin State University Conference with his rushing, but won the national small college rushing championship as well.

Golf also gained 10th place. Kathy Whitworth of San Antonio, Tex., was at her brilliant best in capturing the Milwaukee Jaycee Open this summer with one of the lowest scores ever recorded on the ladies' professional tour. Her victory got 42 points in the balloting.

Leading Techlin Unit Scores 6 Victories

Techlin's (14-4) recorded six victories in nine starts to retain the Valley Pool League lead in latest action.

Twelve Corners (12-6) took undisputed second place, with seven wins. Center Valley (11-7) won seven times to move into third place.

poured in a tourney-record 106 points (against Northland).

North Park is the lowest-scoring team in the field, but has shown the most effective defense. Twice, the Chicagoans have held the opposition below 58 points.

Teaming with Franzen in the starting lineup for Royner Greene-coached North Park will be Dale Peterson, a 6-3 junior; Jon Ecker, a 6-4 junior; and Paul Rockwell a 6-0 sophomore. Other possibilities for the other starting post are 6-1 Paul Gregory and 6-6 Gene Hoskins.

One of the interesting sidelights of the St. Norbert-Carthage match-up will be an encore clash between Rankin and the Redmen's Jan Roland. They met in the 1964 state Catholic high school championship game when Marinette Central topped Xavier.

Rankin, who averaged 15.7 points last season (as a freshman on the varsity), is off to a slower start — with a 9.5 rate to date. Teaming with Rankin in the starting array are Ron Brault, Galen DeNamur, Jack Gebler and Bill Michuda.

DeNamur, Brault and Rankin are returning Knight regulars, while 6-5 Gebler and 6-2 Michuda are freshmen. Brault, the "grandpappy" of collegiate cagers (he left the high school ranks nearly 10 years ago) is still scoring well. Brault, who averaged 21.0 points last season, has an 18.5 mark going in the current campaign. DeNamur leads the team with a 19.5 pace, and Gebler has a 17.0 mark for the Romie Kosnar-coached Knights, who are averaging 91 points a game.

Carthage, which is trying a gruelling schedule — with four tourney games in as many nights — will be playing in its third tournament of the season. The Redmen competed in the Crusade Classic, at Valparaiso (losing, 106-102, to Augustana in the consolation finals) and are currently playing at Park Ridge, Ill.

Among the Carthage starters, besides Parks (an all-College Conference of Illinois choice last season) and Roland, are 6-2 Jack Lutz (average 22 a game) and 6-2 Larry Weiss.

Another member of the Larry Hamilton-coached Carthage team is 5-11 Tom Jooss, who played with Appleton High School's 1965 state tournament team.

Injury Forces Aparicio Out of Winter League

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles said they heard Tuesday that shortstop Luis Aparicio has quit winter baseball because of back trouble.

Harry Dalton, director of player personnel for the world champions, said the club had learned that Aparicio told the Laguaira club in the Venezuelan League that he won't play any more this winter.

Dalton was inclined to feel that the injury can't be too serious, but he cabled Aparicio to contact the Orioles at once.

City Handball Meet Slated For Jan. 7

The city handball tournament, co-sponsored by the Appleton Recreation Department and the Appleton YMCA, will be played Saturday, Jan. 7 on the Appleton "Y" courts.

The deadline for entries in both the singles and doubles divisions will be 5 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 3. Completed entries may be returned either to the ARD office, 1205 W. Prospect Ave., or to the "Y". The entry fee is $1.50 per person.

Residents of any of the Fox Cities are eligible to enter.

Trophies will be awarded for first and second places.

Retson's and Kodiaks Remain Undefeated

Retson's Sandwich Shop (9-0) and the Kodiaks continue to lead the ARD Men's Volleyball League in second-round play.

Retson's "swept" the Hustlers (3-6), and the Kodiaks topped Slim Otto's (3-6) straight games. Reetz's Supper Club (8-1) kept pace with a trio of wins over AAL (0-9), and the Felt Makers (0-9) lost three to the Audibles (4-5).

Win a Magic Trick Set, Apparatus for 20 Bafflers

BY CAPPY DICK

Fit together the seven oddly-shaped pieces in the adjoining picture and you may win a national grand prize consisting of a box of Hocus Pocus Magic Tricks, a collection of 20 bafflers and the apparatus needed to perform them.

In addition, you have a chance to win a local qualifying prize which is Cappy Dick's new Show-and-Tell Educational Foreign Stamp Packet containing six unusual stamps from the Cameroons in Africa. These are fascinating stamps for special reasons. They are floral stamps, presenting pictures of flowers that grow in the Cameroons and they are triangular in shape. Any boy or girl who is a stamp collector or wants to start a stamp collection will find these triangles truly exciting to own.

Five Show-and-Tell packets will be awarded for the five neatest and most original contest entries received from boys and girls of the Fox Valley area. Winning these local prizes will qualify the entries for consideration at the national level when local prize winners from all the cities where this column is published will be reviewed to find the five most original of all. These five will win the Hocus Pocus Magic sets.

The Hocus Pocus sets are a product of the S. S. Adams Company, pioneer manufacturer of magical effects. Included among the 20 tricks in the big carton are the famous Linking Rings and the Rice Bowls. Five sets will be given away as national grand prizes.

The contest is easy to enter. Simply clip out and fit together the seven parts. Paste them on a sheet of paper or a postal card. Print your name, age, address and zip code number beneath it. Decorate the entry in any neat, original way, using paints, crayons, cutouts or other means.

Finally address it to Cappy Dick's Hocus Pocus Magic Contest at the Post-Crescent and mail it before midnight of two days after tomorrow.

Names of the prize winners will be published here and their pictures of the awards will be sent to their homes by mail. Judges' decisions will be final. All entries become Cappy Dick's property. None can be returned.

How medical knowledge fights acid indigestion

A leading stomach specialist reports that a little white peppermint tablet with a special calcium-magnesium formula beats prescriptions costing five and six times as much at relieving stomach distress. The proof came from tests on over 100 people at a famous medical center. What is this remarkable tablet? TUMS! Stomach specialists know TUMS is no mere candy mint. Tests show it is the medicine for acid indigestion. TUMS.

High Court Too Hastily Called 'Conservative'

By BARRY SCHWEID

WASHINGTON (AP) — Liberal critics of the Supreme Court — and there are some — may be a little premature in writing off the 1966-67 term as one in which the justices swung toward conservatism or backed off big issues.

True, the justices were unwilling this year to plunge into a squabble over the traditional exemption of church property from taxation, to say whether the right to counsel applies in minor criminal cases or even to deal with organized baseball's hallowed immunity from antitrust law.

And decisions approving convictions of Negro civil rights demonstrators, the use of a paid government informer to help convict Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa of jury tampering and selection of Georgia's next governor by a legislature held malapportioned did not ring bells in liberal circles.

But the term is not even half over and three cases the justices already have decided to hear have within them the seeds of activist rulings that have made the Warren court anathema to conservatives.

Two are at the very nerve center of civil rights emotions: housing discrimination and bans in some states on racially mixed marriages. The third, electronic eavesdropping, is critically important to civil libertarians — and prosecutors.

California relators will be attacking a California Supreme Court decision that voided a voters-approved ban on open housing laws.

If the California court is upheld, the justices may lay down a broad finding that the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution either bars housing discrimination or at least requires states to act to bar legislated discrimination.

The same amendment's guarantee of equal protection under the law may serve to strike down Virginia's ban on interracial marriage and, by extension, similar laws in 17 other states.

Avoided Issue

Two years ago, when the justices had a chance to throw out the Florida interracial marriage ban, they ducked, although they invalidated a state law which prohibited cohabitation between persons of different races.

An appeal from the Virginia antimiscegenation law, filed on behalf of a mixed couple by the American Civil Liberties Union, appears broad enough to provide a basis for junking such laws in the 18 states — if the justices are of a mind to.

The eavesdropping appeal before the court also may be broad enough for the justices to expand the area covered by the search - and - seizure provisions of the Fourth Amendment.

But they could confine their ruling to narrower grounds: In this case whether New York City prosecutors made an adequate showing of "probable cause" when they obtained state court permission to "bug" a suspect in a liquor license scandal.

Until the decisions in these three cases come down, the jury judging the justices may well be considered out.

Highway Death Raises Year's Count to 1,109

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The death of a Barron County man has raised Wisconsin's 1966 traffic death figure to 1,109.

The toll on Dec. 28 last year was 1,017. In 1964, the year having had a previous record of 1,059 deaths, 1,055 persons had died as of the same date.

Herbert Spaeni, 55, director of the Wisconsin Holstein Breeders Association, was found dead Tuesday near his car which authorities said had plunged into a ditch near Amery.

Spaeni, of Barron, was president of the Consolidated Breeders Association of Anoka, Minn.

Marvin D. Pritchard, 48, of Brookfield died Tuesday in a Milwaukee hospital of injuries received Dec. 15 in a two-car collision in Wauwatosa.

Council Drafts Model Laws For Legislators

State Government To View Proposals During Next Session

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Model legislation on a wide range of public problems has been drafted by the Council of State Governments and submitted to member states, including the Wisconsin legislature preparing for the convening of its biennial session Jan. 11.

Developed through discussions of council leaders on the basis of public problems emerging throughout the country, the range of model bills covers such topics as control of air pollution, disposition of abandoned cars, compensation for victims of crime and safety regulation of dams and reservoirs.

The work evolved through the studies of the council committee on suggested state legislation, to which state attorneys general, legislative service agencies and other state officers around the country contributed.

Not Required

There is no requirement that the legislatures of member states consider the model legislation as suggested by the council, but usually such proposals are introduced in most of the legislatures.

Other proposals among the 14 major suggestions of the council include unfair trade practices controls, in-service training for public employes, extensions of workmen's compensation coverage and regulations on the selling and fitting of hearing aids.

Wisconsin works with the council through a permanent branch of the legislature called the Commission on Interstate Cooperation. A suggested new interstate compact for the consideration of the states deals with problems of disordered criminal offenders.

Idea for Kenosha Campus Gets Boost

Planners Favor Development Of Technological University

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The development of the new Parkside campus of the University of Wisconsin in Kenosha County as a major technological university equipped to serve the growing industrial economy of Wisconsin is gaining support in higher education planning circles.

The idea has had qualified, but significant, backing in a staff memorandum of the University of Wisconsin administration, and has again been endorsed in a working paper prepared by the staff of the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education.

Formal endorsement from the CCHE has not yet been asked, but it is likely to be on the calendar of that control organization at an early meeting. Parkside is being planned as a sister campus to the new University of Wisconsin-Green Bay, authorized in the same 1965 legislative act to serve northeastern Wisconsin. Both are planned to open their doors in the fall of 1969.

Some Reservations

The idea of building the Parkside curriculum upon a technological base, with emphasis upon applied research built upon a liberal arts foundation, was advanced by Joseph Noll, a Kenosha business executive who is also a member of the state board of vocational and adult education, and its representative on the CCHE.

The CCHE queried the University of Wisconsin and Wisconsin State University-Platteville officials. The latter showed some reservations. The University of Wisconsin administration seconded many of the Noll suggestions. The CCHE paper says that academic planning for Parkside and Green Bay must remain provisional and flexible now, but that there is merit in the proposal for a "comprehensive school of modern industry and technology," accompanied by a strong program in the theoretical and social sciences.

Such a school would be expected to offer some or all of these programs, industrial engineering, business, labor relations, mediation, international trade and industrial research.

Another emphasis could be in the field of training teachers of vocational education, who are likely to be in short supply when the enlarged Wisconsin technical institute program is made effective a few years hence, it was suggested.

The CCHE paper said the committee will invite suggestions from other institutions and their experts before a decision is made. But it said it supports the concept that each university should develop "distinctive peaks of excellence," along with broad liberal arts, teacher education and business administration opportunities.

Pair Injured In Mishap at Chilton Today

CHILTON — Two persons were taken to Calumet Memorial Hospital following an accident at 12:15 a.m. today in front of the Sinclair Lunch, 110 E. Chestnut Street.

Both cars involved were demolished in the mishap.

Leroy Schmidlkofer, 18, 25 N. Madison St., and Marilyn Moerke, 19, 205 Memorial Drive, were treated for head cuts and abrasions. Miss Moerke, who was a passenger in the Schmidlkofer car, received leg cuts.

Both remained hospitalized overnight and then were released.

According to Chilton Police Chief Daniel Albedyll, Schmidlkofer was entering Chilton from the south when he lost control of his car.

The auto left the roadway, returned to the highway, narrowly missed a utility pole and struck a car owned by Robert Schranski, 44 Mankato, Minn., which was parked between the curb and the pumps at the service station.

Schranski was in the restaurant at the time.

Book Explores Claims

Possibility of Secret Soviet Flights Revealed

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP) — A Lehigh University professor, in a recently published book, says a nuclear-powered Soviet bomber may have made three undetected flights over U.S. territory two years ago.

In Washington, the Defense Department said, however, that it had "no knowledge of any such penetration nor of any such aircraft." A spokesman said the story "just doesn't make sense."

And a spokesman for the North American Defense Command at Colorado Springs, Colo., said the allegations made in the book "have no basis in fact. To our knowledge, there have been no known or unknown overflights of our territory during or since 1964."

The story was told by John Carroll in the book, "Secret Electronic Espionage." It says the alleged flights may have been made over San Francisco, Calif., New York, and Hawaii in 1964 with a payload equivalent to a 30-megaton bomb and a "phantom instrument box" to ward off radar detection.

Carroll, an industrial engineering instructor, said he was informed of the possible flights by a Korean expatriate in California who claims to be privy to the details of a 1961 meeting in Peking of the Red Chinese Ministry of Defense.

The Soviets claimed their new airplane had evaded their own radar detection in 23 of 25 penetration missions over 10 major Soviet cities, Carroll states.

"This plane was, they explained, a nuclear-powered bomber with average speeds of 2,500 miles per hour and a top speed of 3,500 miles per hour. "It had a ceiling of 85,000 feet and the capability of remaining aloft without refueling" for as long as 21 days.

Trees, Shrubs Common to Area

Landscaped Highways Offer Relaxed Driving

Roadside beautification aims at avoiding monotony and over-standardization of our highways' landscape. To be effective, this landscape development must use and conserve all desirable landscape features along the highway.

Properly landscaped highways offer relaxed driving and pleasing appearance. Purchase of adjacent strips of land for the preservation of natural beauty through which highways pass is often desirable.

Ed Hasselkus, University of Wisconsin horticulturist, believes that all roadside beautification plans should be based on native plants and surroundings. A study of the areas' natural vegetation usually suggests trees and shrubs to use in roadside beautification. Plant trees, shrubs and ground covers that match the area and complement the native environment, he suggests. Hasselkus doesn't believe that beds of petunias and other domestic flowers fit well with the roadsides' natural environment.

As the motorist drives along the highway, he should be able to view complete pictures and changing scenes in scale with the speed he is traveling. Highway plantings need to be dynamic in design so the motorist will be conscious of them and appreciate them, says Warren Schmitz, wayside and landscape supervisor for the state highway commission.

Massed Plantings

Widely spaced plantings of individual trees or shrubs create a spotty and disturbing effect. Massed plantings are the form and texture of the landscape viewed at expressway speeds.

Roadside beautification can go a long way toward dispelling the animosity which often flares up over the location of urban freeways. It often improves the beauty of the expressway right-of-way.

The expressway should reflect the character of attractive communities. Informal plantings of deciduous and coniferous trees, shrubs and vines provides a green buffer strip between the travelway and adjacent urban development. Buffer plantings between the motorist and the community provide desirable economic and social benefits which continue for many years.

Often the area along the urban highway is the only place where trees or grass may be provided. Such roadside beautification is beneficial and attractive to both the highway user and the residents or users of the adjacent area. Proper landscape development of urban highways provides a desirable touch of natural beauty in an essentially man-made environment. Also, it is often a means of maintaining or improving the economic and aesthetic values of the areas adjacent to the highway.

Beautification with plantings is of particular value within urban interchanges, near major structures, and on short sections of residential, school, and park frontage.

On rural highways, preservation of existing woodlands and outstanding trees in medians and on highway borders is important. Supplement these existing trees and natural growth only as needed. New plantings may be justified in open areas, on cut and fill slopes and near interchanges and other structures. Avoid regularly spaced trees in an extensive row or avenue effect in rural planting.

3 AFL Quarterbacks Give Chiefs Edge Over Buffalo '11'

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Among the seven American Football League quarterbacks who'll be watching the Kansas City-Buffalo championship game Sunday, three pick Kansas City, one calls it a toss-up and three won't predict a winner.

All seven like Buffalo's defense, but three like the Kansas City offense even more.

"It's going to be a matter of getting the best field position, the breaks, a fumble," said John Hadl of the San Diego Chargers.

Over-all Balance

"But I'd have to go with Kansas City. Their over-all balance has been their best asset all year — great running, great throwing.

"Weather may have a lot to do with it. Unless it is real sloppy, Kansas City has the advantage. I hope the Chiefs win because I think they'd be the best representative in the Super Bowl."

John McCormick of Denver said the Bills and Chiefs are pretty even except Kansas City's linebackers are better and the Chiefs have more scoring power.

"My personal opinion is that Kansas City, man to man, is a little bit stronger," McCormick said. "If I had to pick a winner, I'd have to go along with Kansas City. Either one will make it close in the Super Bowl and it wouldn't surprise me if our league knocks off the NFL."

Don Trull of Houston said Kansas City is a little stronger both running and passing, with an edge in its flankers and speed.

"Kansas City will win if it doesn't get too fancy on offense and defense and uses its head with ball control," Trull said.

Tom Flores of Oakland, rating it a tossup, termed Buffalo "stronger and more solid as a squad and more accustomed to playing as a team.

"Also, Buffalo's simplified offense and defense eliminates mistakes.

"Buffalo has the psychological advantage of playing at home and being defending champion," Flores added. "Kansas City has the better offense—more explosive — and seems to be a happy squad this year."

Boston's Babe Parilli, Miami's Dick Wood and New York's Joe Namath won't hazard an opinion on the outcome.

Italian Film 'Blow-Up' Banned for Catholics

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Catholic Office for Motion Pictures has issued a condemned rating for the film "Blow-Up," the first English language motion picture of Italian director Michelangelo Antonioni.

The effect of the condemnation by the office, formerly known as the National Legion of Decency, was to forbid Roman Catholics from seeing the film.

The office said in a statement Tuesday: "Brilliance of camera technique and beauty of image composition do not justify a sexual treatment, which, in certain sequences, will impress viewers as going beyond reasonable limits of moral acceptability for a public entertainment medium."

Blow Up, filmed in England, opened here last week and has played to capacity audiences. Critics gave it generally excellent reviews.

The Production Code Administration, the American film industry's watchdog panel, refused 10 days ago to grant the film its seal of approval.

Cold Sounds In the City of 'LA'

BY TV SCOUT

8-9 (Channels 4-5) — S Lee Pogostin who turned out brittle scripts like "The Game" and "A Small Rebellion" which won their share of awards last season, does another crisp job of writing for Bob Hope Presents the Chrysler Theater Again Pogostin is concerned in stripping the facade off the cool, overfed 1960s His hero an "Free of Charge" is a dedicated jazz musician who can't cope with the busting, empty sounds of rock 'n' roll which have turned Los Angeles and the world into "a city of LA" He cracks up right in the middle of Sunset strip, is dragged to a doctor (Suzy Parker), and is made to face reality whether he wants to or not John Cassavetes is sympathetic, although perhaps too hysterical as Pogostin's tormented protagonist Ben Gazzara Diane Baker and Johnny Silver are submerged in more superficial assignments Yet all are effective in roles by an author who "protests too much" for good reasons

6.30-8 (Channel 5) — The Virginian s conflict once more is between a city mouse and a country mouse who can't come to terms on the raw, outdoorsy life of the West Pamela Austin plays one of those pesty, overspoiled brats women will hate Tom Tryon plays her empty-brained wrangler husband whom she goads into becoming a fancy dan businessman The drama is too pat for comfort but when the chips are down there is a colorful poker playing sequence and a flukey stage robbery to brighten things up

7-8 (Channels 11-6-9) — The Monroes puts its young heroine Kathy (Barbara Hershey) in a terrible fix She has ideas of being a Florence Nightingale as she renders first aid to two knocked-out brutes (Alejandro Rey, as a Pawnee Indian, and James Westmoreland, a scrappy white man) When they awake, however, they once again take out their hatred on each other and begin ripping up her cabin

8-8:30 (Channels 11-6-9) — The Man Who Never Was bounces along with another grueling tale, "Drop by Drop" Robert Lansing has an almost impossible assignment, find a plan (a highly secret and experimental one) which has plopped in European waters and wreck it before it can be salvaged by the enemy It would seem reasonable that an expert demolition team would do the job better.

8-8:30 (Channels 2-7-12) — There is enough cornbread humor on Green Acres to keep its viewers fascinated As always, the plot is as thin as a green bean, with Oliver (Eddie Albert) going berserk because he can't plant his tomatoes until he gets a good weather report But what can he do when one radio station uses a Swiss weather house with two dolls in its predictions? And another station announcer sings his reports as entertainment? Jack Bailey the old Queen for a Day maestro, is quite funny, with the "rain or shine" reports

8:30-9 (Channels 2-7-12) — You will probably enjoy Elizabeth MacRae as a swingy, offkey blonde who becomes fascinated with Jim Nabors on Gomer Pyle — USMC Frank Sutton, eager to get in tune with the girl (a night club canary), finds he has strong opposition from Nabors

9-10 (Channels 2-7-12) — Accent on The Danny Kaye Show is on the Continental songs sung by those European pros Caterina Valente (delectable with "Stompin' at the Savoy") and Gilbert Becaud (romantic with "What Now My Love") Rest of the hour is devoted to Danny romping around in an "Instant Spy" comedy sketch and flopping in another in a dual roles of an English captain and a German U-boat captain There is also a "Father of the Year" bit, and Danny's favorite tots including Victoria Meyerink, to sweeten up things.

9-10 (Channels 11-6-9) — A Dinner at Howard K Smith's, a special, finds the ABC correspondent in black tie and cosily at home in Maryland reviewing the trials and tribulations of the major 1966 news events Some excellent film clips and a panel of top ABC News correspondents and commentators help in viewing the world's problems

9-10 (Channels 4-5) — I Spy is once again with a blackmail plot — this time involving a U S embassy employe — on the complicated grounds of troubled Italy Alf Kjellin a government worker, has a rocky romance with Ulla Stromstedt a Roman model, and is ready for suicide He succeeds rather neatly. Or was he murdered? Nehemiah Persoff may have the key in this suspenseful episode

Petra Burka, 19, current figure skating champion of the world, is one of the stars of the 1967 edition of "Holiday on Ice," coming to the Milwaukee Arena Friday, Jan. 20, through Sunday, Jan 29

Holiday on Ice Has New Champion Skating Star

Winner of Three Top Titles in One Month; Youthful Skater Joins Professional Troupe

A new star — a champion of champions who ranks second to none among the women skaters of the entire world — will make her professional debut in Wisconsin when 'Holiday On Ice" plays the Milwaukee Arena from Jan 20 through Jan 29

She is Petra Burka. Just 19 years old, she holds three major titles — World's champion, North American champion and Canadian champion, all of which she won in one single month of competition.

In addition to these titles she has, over the years, won many other honors as she skated her way to fame, and now to a lucrative salary.

Has Skating Background

It might well be said that Petra Burka is following in the icy footsteps of her mother, Ellen Burka, who won the Dutch women's championship in Amsterdam back in 1946 and then came to Canada to become a skating instructor and coach in Toronto One of her most apt students was daughter Petra, who was born in Holland where skating is, in fact, a way of life

Like all youngsters with a background of family skating, Petra was on skates as soon as she began wearing shoes. It was not until she was 7 that she began serious skating and training. By the time she was 14 she had won the Canadian National Junior title. At 15, competing against the best and most experienced skaters, she took second place in the Canadian Senior championships.

Step by step she fought her way to the top. When she was 16, as a member of the Canadian World Skating team, she placed fourth. In the same year was second in the Canadian nationals and in the North American competition.

On Olympic Team

In 1964 she led Canada's Olympic team after winning the Canadian Nationals for the first time and in the Olympics placed third.

Another year of coaching — another year of training and long hours of practice and Miss Burka was ready for the supreme test. These were three major competitions in the month of February, 1965. First she won the Canadian National, then the North American and then she climaxed the long climb with the World's championship at Colorado Springs.

In the show, Miss Burka does a solo number in which she demonstrates all the routines which won for her the top spot among women skaters of the world and then she stars in a production number titled "Happyland Village." In the finale she appears in the Christmas scene in a panorama of Happy Holidays.

Practical Petra

Petra — pronounced Peetra — is not only a great skater but a very practical young woman. Having reached the top as a amateur, having collected trophies, medals and awards of every kind, none of which are accepted for groceries in the super-market, she decided to make skating pay instead of paying for skating.

She found Holiday On Ice waiting for her.

Butte des Morts Presents 12 at Coronet Ball

John Manley and his daughter, Kathleen, and Penelope Ann Toal and her father, E. Patrick Toal, above, stood before one of the East Lounge trees that carried out Butte des Morts Golf Club's holiday color scheme of gold and white. The young women were among those introduced at Tuesday evening's Coronet Ball. Two of the other presentees posed at right with their fathers. They are Karlett Lyn Kuehn, Dr Philip McCanna and his daughter Mary Anne, and Karl Kuehn.

Post-Crescent Photos

With glittering coronets newly placed on their heads, 12 Fox Cities young women, gowned in debutante white, were introduced Tuesday evening to Butte des Morts Golf Club members and guests by club president James Gustman. To their favorite melodies, the girls, radiantly lovely, made their bows, then, on the arms of their fathers or sponsors, took their places until all were presented.

It was a gay and festive evening for the young women who, with introductions complete, danced the traditional first dance with their fathers. They then were claimed by escorts in the 'rush dance'. The club carried out with elegant simplicity a gold and white decorating theme. From the snow outside to flocked trees and wreaths adorned with gold satin ornaments and the white of the girls' gowns, the ninth Coronet Ball was as pretty a party as one could have wished.

Presented at Ball

Introduced were Dianne Catlin, daughter of the Mark Catlin Jrs., 1614 S. Connell St.; Patricia Mary Giffin, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Walter S. Giffin, 609 S Walnut St ; Elizabeth Ann Gilling, daughter of the Earl Gillings, 1631 Carver Lane; Mary Jack, daughter of the Lloyd Jacks, 1423 W. Lorain Court; Penny Lea Krampien, daughter of Mrs Nathan E Burstein, 510 River Road, and George Krampien, Reid Drive, introduced by her step-father; Karlett Lynn Kuehn, daughter of the Karl Kuehns, 313 Filmore St , Kaukauna, and Kathleen Maria Manley, daughter of the John Manleys, 579 E. Wisconsin Ave., Neenah.

Also presented were Mary Anne McCanna, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Philip Roy McCanna, 1127 E Grant St ; Maryann Swaim, daughter of the Lloyd M Swaims, 1082 Reed St , Neenah; Trudy Theiss, daughter of Mr. and

The Ninth Coronet Ball was held at Butte des Morts Golf Club Tuesday evening, in a setting of gold and white. Above, Lloyd M. Swaim and his daughter, Maryann, and Patricia Mary Giffin and her father, Dr. Walter S Giffin, pause for a moment before one of the flocked Christmas trees that decorated the club for the party.

The 1966 Presentees and their escorts danced after the girls shared the traditional post introduction dance with their fathers. Part of the group is shown above as the young men claimed the girls for an evening of dancing.

A Group of Presentees and their fathers chatted before the presentation. They are George Theiss and his daughter, Trudy; Peter Traas Jr. and his daughter, Gretchen Grace; Lloyd Jack and his daughter, Mary, and Earl Gilling and his daughter, Elizabeth Ann.

A Topiary Tree adorned the wall inside Butte des Morts' entry. In the holiday setting, at right, Nathan Burstein who presented his step-daughter, Penny Lea Krampien, and Dianne Catlin, introduced by her father, Mark Catlin.

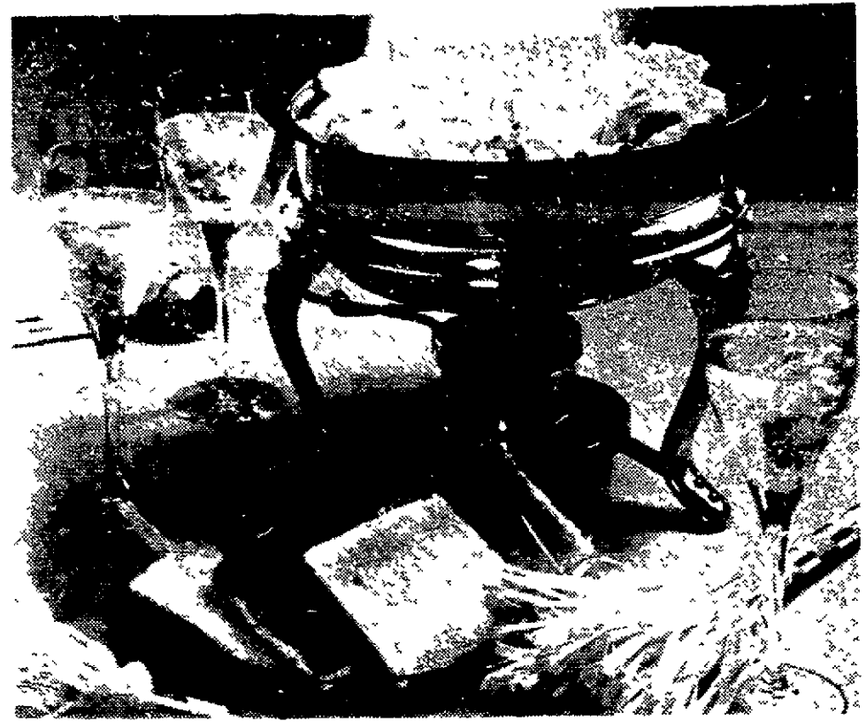
Plump, meaty Vienna sausages lend a festive air to the hearty cheese pie, left, which resembles a clock striking off the last hours of the old year. Tomato juice is the bright, toasting beverage. Also new for 1967 is the seafood chafing dish specialty that makes its flaming debut at the stroke of midnight on New Year's Eve. It's called Seafood '67.



Cook Up a Happy New Year's Eve Party

BY LILLIAN MACKESY

Holiday foods should look festive. . .particularly so the buffet for a New Year's Eve party. For a real swinger of an evening, actually "cook in" the New Year with dramatic stirring and flaming while guests stand around and watch. This is the chafing dish meal, called Seafood '67, especially created for the occasion.

Another excellent dish . . variation of the Quiche Lorraine that goes beautifully with a toast of tomato juice (there are many who prefer it this way). . .is a cheese pie wheel

This becomes an appetizer that has a man pleasing heartiness rather than the usual tiny tidbits. The recipe uses canned Vienna sausages, year-round convenience food. They also might be served in another he-man variation. . .in pastry "blankets" for good fare on a cold, cold night.

Here they are with a well-meant "Happy New Year" wish.

SEAFOOD '67

- ½ cup butter
- 2 pounds large raw shrimp, shelled and deveined
- 2 cups King Crab meat, canned or frozen
- 2 onions, chopped
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 2 cans (10½ oz. each) condensed cream of mushroom soup
- 2 soup cans light cream
- ½ cup brandy, vodka, or other liquor
- Toast squares

Melt butter in chafing dish over hot water. Add shrimp, crab, onions, salt and pepper. Cover and cook five minutes.

Stir in mushroom soup and cream. Heat well. Add all but two tablespoons of liquor.

Heat the remaining liquor in a ladle or spoon near the chafing dish flame and tip it slightly so that it ignites. Pour the blazing liquor into the casserole. Serve on toast. Recipe makes six to eight servings.

VIENNA CHEESE PIE

- 1 pie shell, unbaked
- 2 cups shredded Swiss cheese
- 2 cans (4-ounces each) Vienna sausages, drained
- 4 eggs
- 1 cup milk or light cream
- ½ teaspoon salt
- Dash of cayenne pepper
- Dash of nutmeg

Prebake pie shell at 400 degrees for five minutes. Reduce heat to 350 degrees Sprinkle cheese on bottom of shell. Place sausages, spoke-fashion, on top of cheese.

Beat together eggs, milk, salt, cayenne and nutmeg. Pour into shell.

Bake for 35 to 40 minutes or until knife inserted just off center comes out clean.

Madison Senator Likely to be Floor Leader of Minority

Schreiber Expected to Get Second Spot at Democratic Caucus

By JAMES R. POLK
Associated Press Writer

MADISON (AP) — A dozen Democrats caucus next Monday to pass out their customary Senate consolation prize — the post of minority floor leader.

Madison attorney Fred Risser, 39, a tall, lean, and light-haired legislative veteran, is the front runner to become the first senator from outside Milwaukee to lead the Democrats in the upper house in a decade and a half.

Sen. Martin J. Schreiber, 27, a Milwaukee attorney who carried the party's banner for lieutenant governor in the Nov. 8 election, is considered a leading candidate to succeed Risser as assistant floor leader.

Sources among Senate Democratic ranks report that veteran Sen Norman Sussman of Milwaukee might be dumped as caucus chairman. His ouster would complete a thorough shuffle of the leadership lineup for both parties in the Senate.

Constant Minority

The GOP, by promoting two men and tapping two fresh faces, installed new names in each of its top four Senate slots Dec. 5 Republicans own 21-12 control in the Senate where Democrats have been in the minority every session except one since 1893.

The Senate Democrats will be the last delegation in the two houses to hold a leadership caucus when they meet Monday in the state Capitol two hours before the 1967 Legislature is sworn in. The size of the embattled Democratic delegation makes open candidates difficult to identify.

"When there's only 12 people involved, a lot of people don't formally announce," explained Risser, the one man who is an announced candidate for a specific position.

Possible Challenge

Schreiber would only say that he is a candidate "for a leadership position." But he did indicate that he would not challenge Risser for the top post.

"Just let me say Fred Risser would make a good floor leader," Schreiber said.

The third person mentioned prominently for a leadership position, Sen Taylor F. Benson, R-Franksville, said, "I don't even know yet if I'll be a candidate We'll know when the moment of truth arrives next Monday."

Benson explained, "We're a pretty open bunch. We're not like the Republicans There are no clandestine meetings. We go in and lay our cards on the table and see who has got the votes."

The top post for the Democrats was vacated when Sen Richard Zaborski, D-Milwaukee, the minority leader for two terms, did not seek re-election to the Legislature. Zaborski lost a bid in the Democratic primary for the nomination for state treasurer.

Case for Liu Shao-chi

Doctrine of Persuasion Faces Mao In Matter of Former Heir Apparent

TOKYO (AP) — "The attitude of Communists toward any person who has made mistakes in his work should be one of persuasion in order to help him change and start afresh and not one of exclusion, unless he is incorrigible."

Chinese Communist Chairman Mao Tse-tung made this statement in 1938. Today 28 years later, Mao at 73 faces a dilemma: Should he continue to try to persuade his former heir apparent, President Liu Shao-chi, and Communist party secretary Teng Hsiao-ping of the error of their ways? Or should he dismiss them as incorrigible and exclude them from the corridors of Chinese power.

The white-haired Liu and the short, Napoleonic Teng were subjected Tuesday night to the scorn of 100,000 young Red Guards at a rally in Peking at which Liu was branded the "Khrushchev of China" and the "boss of capitalism."

Anti-Mao Sins

Wall newspapers in Peking disclosed that Liu and Teng abjectly confessed to anti-Mao sins before the party Central Committee last October, slightly more than two months after Mao had moved Defense Minister Lin Piao into Red China's No 2 spot and banished Liu to No. 8.

The Red Guards question the sincerity of the two men.

The sins to which Teng confessed in October were of recent date, revolving chiefly around his incorrect direction of the cultural revolution purge in June and July, while Mao was out of Peking.

Liu's admitted mistakes go back to 1946. Their number and seriousness raise the question: Was he forced on each occasion to indulge in self-criticism? Or has he, through control of the party majority, been able to defy Mao for two decades without being scratched?

It appears that in 1946 he favored a coalition government with Chiang Kai-shek, and a long period of peace for China. The implication is that Mao did not and sparked the belligerent wing of the party which welcomed, if it did not encourage, the breakdown of the talks over which the late U.S. Gen. George C. Marshall presided.

Intensified Driver Education Credited for Low Holiday Toll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Death bypassed the highways in five states during the Christmas holiday weekend, and traffic safety officials credited the achievement to intense driver education, increased police patrols, bad weather and the spirit of Christmas.

Fatalities dropped substantially in several other states, some of them with large populations.

There were no traffic deaths reported in Idaho, Alaska, Nebraska, Delaware or Rhode Island.

Latest figures show that 584 persons lost their lives in the three-day Christmas weekend. Last year 720 persons were killed during Christmas observance. The 1966 Thanksgiving four-day holiday set an all-time record for any holiday period when 748 persons died.

Idaho Campaign

A.E. Perkins, head of the Idaho State Police, gave credit to a pre-Christmas campaign which urged parents to have their children take more time reaching home for the holidays and asked partygoers to do their drinking after their driving.

"We had some inclement weather and that slowed people down," he said "And I think the spirit of Christmas prevailed a little. People are getting to be a little better drivers, a little more courteous."

Several populous states recorded sharply reduced death tolls for the weekend.

Lower Totals

Last year 50 persons were killed in Ohio. This year's toll was 34. Twenty-four persons died in New York State compared to 35 in 1965.

The toll increased in two states. Sixty-one persons died in California this Christmas weekend compared to 54 last year. In Texas 48 persons died in 1965 Christmas accidents and 52 were killed this year.

Although the 1966 yule death toll was far under last year's total, it was well above the 391 deaths counted in an Associated Press survey for a nonholiday weekend, Dec. 9-12 The National Safety Council had estimated 650 to 750 persons would be killed.

Leukemia Victim Joyous at Tour Of Disneyland

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — A blonde girl with sparkling eyes romped in the land of make-believe and personally met the Three Little Pigs.

Susan Dewey, 6, a leukemia victim from Grand Rapids, Mich., was given VIP treatment Tuesday at Disneyland.

She was met at the gate by the Three Little Pigs and a human-sized cartoon character named Goofy, who — in the fantasy land of children — is a talking dog.

She viewed most of the sprawling land of fantasy from a wheelchair Susan doesn't have much strength Doctors say she may die from the blood disease within a year.

"There were doubts she would be here to celebrate Christmas," said her father, George Dewey, a used car salesman

Susan arrived Monday night with her parents and sister, Kathie, 4, after spending Christmas at home

The trip was financed by a Los Angeles businessman, who asked to remain anonymous

"She had a wonderful time," said Mrs Dewey.

Kennedy Book Dispute Likely To Fade Away With Delays

Ailing Author Happy at News Of Withdrawal

MIDDLETOWN, Conn. (AP) — Recuperating from pneumonia, author William Manchester was reported cheered by the news that Mrs. John F. Kennedy is no longer pressing for an injunction to prevent publication of his book about the assassination of her husband.

"That's great!" said Manchester's wife, Julia, when told Tuesday night. "That's marvelous!"

Manchester was not available for comment, but was "feeling like himself again" according to a spokesman at Middlesex Memorial Hospital.

The 44-year-old author of "The Death of a President" got out of bed Tuesday for the first time since he was hospitalized early Monday with a high fever. He also ate a turkey dinner.

Three Physicians

Manchester is under the care of three physicians. Dr. F. Erwin Tracy is treating him for pneumonia; Dr. Mark Thumin, an eye specialist, is treating him for a scratched cornea — suffered while Manchester was trimming the family Christmas tree Saturday; and Dr. Asher L. Baker, a psychiatrist who prescribed antidepressant drugs.

Baker, who treated Manchester while the author was in a private psychiatric institution for about a month last year, said depression was commonly experienced after a virus attack.

Manchester was treated for mental fatigue in 1965 while he was working on his controversial book.

Talks Point to Quick, Quiet Settlement, Spokesman Says

NEW YORK (AP) — The Kennedy book dispute could end quietly now after Mrs. John F. Kennedy's decision to withhold temporarily her suit to stop its publication, a family spokesman indicated today.

"I'm not going to guarantee it," he said, "but much points to a resolution. There has been progress and I think things could well be resolved noiselessly and soon."

Attorneys for Mrs. Kennedy and Harper & Row, publishers of William Manchester's "The Death of a President," an account of the Kennedy assassination, agreed Tuesday to put off hearings on her request for an injunction against the book until mid-January in expectation of a reasonably quick settlement.

Progress Steady

The parties, ordered to appear at a State Supreme Court show cause hearing, said the arrangement would give them sufficient time for more discussion on passages to be trimmed from the 300,000-word text. Both sides characterized progress as "steady."

Mrs. Kennedy and Harper & Row said in a statement that Manchester's hospitalization Monday made it necessary to continue talks "over a longer period than was anticipated."

Harper & Row called the situation "hopeful" and indicated that an amicable settlement was thought possible soon.

The publisher also agreed in the statement not to bring out the book until April 1. Look magazine reached a settlement with Mrs. Kennedy on deletions in its 60,000-word extract of the text, the first installment of which reaches newsstands Jan. 10.

The book and magazine publishers worked on removing passages Mrs. Kennedy considers of personal rather than historical interest since she moved to block publication Dec. 16. Manchester, she charged in her suit, had invaded her privacy and broken a contract stipulating he must submit the manuscript for her approval before turning it over to Harper & Row.

Mrs. Kennedy, vacationing with her children on the British West Indian island of Antigua, could not be reached for comment on the developments.

A vacation was recommended for Manchester, too, by his physician. Dr. F. Erwin Tracy said the 44-year-old writer was responding well to treatment at Middlesex Hospital in Middletown, Conn and was no longer in critical condition.

12 Young Women Bow Tuesday Evening at Coronet Ball

Dinner by Candlelight

For the young presentees, all June high school graduates, the gala evening began with a coketail party at the Giffin home, with the McCannas as co-hosts. With their escorts, the group dined by candlelight at the club, where the menu included tomato consomme madreline, New York strip steaks, and creme de menthe sundaes.

After donning their ball gowns for the 9:30 p.m. presentations, the girls walked on the arms of their fathers down a runway of white, where, against a stage background of white flocked trees, they were introduced to Mr. Gustman. The presentations this year were made in the club's new East Lounge.

As the orchestra began to play after the presentations, the club filled with young guests of the girls, invited for the ball and giving the club the spirit of youthful exuberance that is associated with the Coronet Ball.

Mrs. Raymond LeVee was Coronet Ball chairman this year, with Mrs. Thomas Frawley as co-chairman. Mrs. Eric Lindberg provided organ music during the introductions.

Mrs. Kennedy Vacations At Plush West Indies Club

By KELLY SMITH

ANTIGUA, B.W.I. (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy went swimming, bought suntan lotion and shampoo and asked for privacy Tuesday on the first day of a vacation at a fancy oceanside club here. A private police force guarded the club's entrance, with special security rules in effect, and visitors were barred.

Mrs. Kennedy arrived by plane Monday night with her two children, John Jr., 6, and Caroline 9. They are guests of millionaire Paul Mellon and his wife.

The Mellons own a rambling graystone home, set in a hillside overlooking a blue-green bay studded with coral reefs. It's part of a complex known as the Mill Reef Club.

Mill Reef is composed of about 700 acres along the sea. There are about 50 homes in the $50,000 and upward bracket in the area, which has a golf course, tennis courts, croquet course, yacht basin and stables.

"There will be absolutely no entertaining while she is here," a spokesman for the Mellons said. "Mrs. Kennedy wants to be left alone. Not even the usual Mellon guests are coming."

The beach, however, has no rules; by law, it is public.

Before 9 a.m., Mrs. Kennedy and the children walked down the hillside steps to the sand and into the water. They stayed briefly and left.

Within an hour, Mrs. Kennedy drove to a nearby hotel shop for a large bottle of suntan oil, two rolls of film and a large bottle of shampoo.

Shortly before noon, she took another dip in the sea — this time alone. Some bathers said she swam out about 100 yards then swam back and left.

Antigua is a rocky British island at the shoulder of the Antilles chain, 300 miles southeast of Puerto Rico.

Visitors are more likely to be millionaires than average families.

Words No Problem To Precocious Tot

PADUCAH, Ky. (AP) — As she boarded the plane, Michelle Robins startled the stewardess by asking for a supply of magazines, newspapers and books.

When they arrived, she settled back in her seat and began to enjoy herself.

It was an unusual sight since Michelle is only 34 months old.

"She's been reading ever since she was 14 months old," said Michelle's mother, Maurine Robins, after they arrived here from Midland, Tex., for a visit with relatives.

"We were driving along the highway one day," Mrs. Robins recalled, "and there was a sign in front of a service station. Michelle read it without an error."

Reads It All

The youngster since has graduated to the Bible, religious periodicals, encyclopedias, children's books and "just about everything she can get her hands on."

Michelle also will correct you if you mispronounce the name of a species of cactus.

"She loves cactus," said Mrs. Robins. "She can name and identify four varieties. And she uses the proper Mexican pronunciations."

Although Michelle's ability to read is unusual, she has a little trouble with mathematics.

She can count only to 30 and 11 comes out "eleventeen."

What a handicap!

Expert Must Learn To Think

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Our third hand for Bonehead Bridge Week comes, like the first two, from the Team Selection Tournament held in Pittsburgh last November. South's play seems very reasonable until you think about it — and, of course, an expert who fails to think drops out of the expert class.

West led the four of spades, and declarer shrewdly put up dummy's king. A defender will often open a trump from A-x-x, but not from Q-x-x.

Flushed with triumph, declarer took the queen of diamonds, cashed the top hearts and ruffed a heart in dummy. Then he tried to run some diamonds, but woke up with a jolt when East ruffed the ace of diamonds with the queen of spades.

East shrewdly shifted to a low club, and South played low. West got in with the jack of clubs and led the ace of trumps and his last trump. South eventually had to give up a trick to the king of clubs. Down one.

Blocked Trumps

The clue to the right play lay in the opening lead. West would not have led the low trump from A-x or from A-Q-9-x. It was a cinch that West started with A-x-x of trumps, and East with Q-x.

The trumps were therefore blocked and the defenders could not clear out dummy's trumps without losing a trump trick in the process. Hence there was no hurry about ruffing a heart in dummy.

After taking the queen of diamonds, South should lead a heart to dummy's ace and try to cash the ace of diamonds. East ruffs and returns a low club.

South steps up with the ace of clubs, cashes the king of hearts and gets back to dummy by ruffing a heart. Then he cashes the king of diamonds, discarding a club. Declarer loses only two trumps and a club, making his game contract.

Daily Question

You have opened with one diamond, and partner has responded one heart. It is up to you again, holding: S K 7 6, H A 6, D A K 10 7 6 4, C 8 5.

Answer: Bid two diamonds. If partner cannot find another bid, you will not miss a game. Don't be in a hurry to make a jump rebid when you have only 14 points in high cards.

Mom's Advice Helps Reader Overcome Fear of Childbirth

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was interested in the letter from the young married woman who wrote that she was afraid to have a baby because she had heard of many horrible tales about the agony of labor pains.

Before my first child was born, I, too, was petrified. I am sure my fear was a hangover from old movies showing women in labor, dripping with perspiration — clawing the bed linen and screaming for relief. I told my mother how frightened I was and she answered me in a simple sentence: "If having a baby is such a horrible experience why do so many women have more than one?"

My first delivery was no picnic but I kept remembering what my mother had said, and it was very comforting. When the nurse placed the little pink and white bundle into my arms a few hours later I forgot the hours of pain. I have had two babies since and they came much easier. I know now that everything has a price and childbearing is no exception. I wouldn't trade those three tummyaches for anything in the world. — Mrs. C.M.

Dear Mrs.: The movie version of childbirth went out with tearing sheets and boiling water. New scientific techniques have eliminated most of the agony. Enlightened obstetricians prepare their patients emotionally as well as physically. Expectant mothers are told what to expect and why. This is very helpful since the fear of the unknown causes most of the tenseness and anxiety.

When one considers the pain suffered with no compensation whatever, childbirth turns out to be a real bargain.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The letter you printed recently about the little boy who stole some small change from the neighbor's kitchen windowsill brought to mind a story my mother used to tell. It has a moral worth passing on.

Mother's neighbor kept a bowl of candy on the dining room table for the children who came to visit. She also kept a dish of pennies near the candy. The moment a child left she counted the pennies. If any pennies were missing she would gossip about it to the neighbors.

I believe temptation-testing is rock-bottom. The person who makes stealing easy encourages dishonesty. Isn't this the most despicable form of immorality?

When I see merchandise displayed temptingly and no employe in sight it becomes clear to me why shoplifting is at an all-time high. Candy, gum, cigarettes and magazines piled near the door are an open invitation to "help yourself."

Please publish my letter and your comments. — O.W.F.

Dear O.W.F.: You are right — some people can stand anything but temptation. When we make it easier for someone to do the wrong thing rather than the right thing, we are in a sense setting a trap.

A good example of unwittingly encouraging stealing is leaving keys in the ignition of a car. The driver who plans to be gone only a few minutes places a heavy burden on teenagers who love to drive a car — anybody's. Many a youth who had not set out to steal a car got the notion when he saw the keys dangling from the dashboard. The crime rate among juveniles has never been higher and irresistible temptation might well be cited as one of the causes.

Northside Traffic Complaints Aired Before City Officials

Advancement Group Predicts Stepped-Up Political, Civic Action

Representatives of the Northside Advancement Association aired traffic and parking complaints to city officials Tuesday, and served notice they would step up civic and political activity in the future.

"I feel during the past year I have met with many failures," Edgar J. Quevillon, the association's retiring president, told the city council's public safety committee.

However, he did admit a comprehensive plan had been prepared by the city for the northside business district.

Accompanying Quevillon were Patrick Mares, Sylvester Parker and William Parker, Wisconsin Avenue businessmen.

Businessmen Complain

Mares and the Parkers complained that:

—Too many trucks are taking the Wisconsin Avenue (State 96) route instead of using Northland Avenue (County OO) as the bypass.

—Left-turn traffic signals were promised at the Richmond Street-Wisconsin Avenue intersection several months ago but have not been installed.

—Because of 150-foot setbacks from the intersection, which prohibit parking, an estimated three parking spaces are being lost on Wisconsin Avenue and Richmond Streets.

—While the merchants have indicated their willingness to purchase property for off-street parking, the city has, in recent months, turned down offers to buy land for municipal parking facilities in the Wisconsin Avenue shopping district.

City Waiting

City Planner Walter Rasmussen said the city has been waiting for the district office of the State Highway Commission at Green Bay to set the signal frequency for left-turn equipment at Richmond-Wisconsin.

Rasmussen told the northside group the delay was not the fault of the city, and that it had cooperated with the Advancement Association in the past and would continue to do so in the future.

Rasmussen and other committee members also said the heavier truck traffic on Wisconsin Avenue could be blamed on the county for putting up three four-way stops along the route.

"Wisconsin Avenue is a state highway and the city cannot do anything to prohibit the truck traffic," Rasmussen said.

County's Fault

He also reminded Mares, a member of the Outagamie County Board, that truckers are not taking the Northland Avenue

Kaukauna Man Fined For Reckless Driving

KAUKAUNA — Daniel Siebers, 20, 917 Boyd Ave., Kaukauna, pleaded guilty of reckless driving when arraigned before Clarence O'Connor, municipal justice, Tuesday, and was fined $75.

Siebers was arrested Friday after being involved in an accident resulting in property damage.

Car Keys in Your Pocket?

Appleton Council Supports Anti-Car Theft Legislation

Another step was taken Tuesday night to make it illegal in Appleton for motorists to leave unattended vehicles with ignition keys in them.

The council's welfare-ordinance committee, noting that car theft is one of the leading crimes committed in this region and the country in general, gave its approval to proposed local legislation.

It was recommended that a model anti-car theft ordinance be studied by the appropriate council committee — in this case the public safety committee — with the final draft prepared by the city attorney.

Support Ordinance

Police Chief Earl O. Wolff said he supported an ordinance which would outlaw leaving keys in vehicles, or transmission switches turned on when vehicles are parked unattended.

Although Appleton has a higher-than-average incidence of car theft, the police department has had a near 100 per cent recovery record.

The Greater Appleton Area Safety Council, at its 6 p.m. Jan. 4 meeting, is expected to endorse a proposal recently submitted to city officials that would make it illegal to leave keys in unattended vehicles.

A letter of endorsement would be submitted from the safety council to Appleton Mayor George Buckley.

James H. Anderson, director of safety service for the American Red Cross, will discuss industrial accidents and outline a new program of industrial safety education at the dinner meeting at the Darboy Club.

Strong support for legislation on the local level to combat car theft has come from the Justice Department, National League of Cities and the U.S. Conference of Mayors.

Group Backing

State and local groups, and individuals also have endorsed such legislation.

Appleton is one of many communities in the United States which will participate in an anti-car theft program next spring in conjunction with the Justice Department.

Theft of automobiles in Appleton ranks third as the most committed felony.

Statistics also show, the welfare-ordinance committee said, that auto theft is a major highway safety menace, and it may be a step toward commission of a more serious crime.

Froehlich Plans Law To End Court Dilemma

Proposal Would Allow Calumet Cases in Appleton to be Tried by Outagamie Judge

Legislation is being drafted in Madison to permit the trying of traffic and other violators in the court of either county in which a municipality lies regardless of in which county the offense takes place.

A copy of the first draft was sent by Assemblyman Harold V. Froehlich, R-Appleton, today to Appleton city officials.

Under existing law, persons arrested for municipal ordinance or traffic violations in the portion of Appleton (Second Precinct, Ninth Ward) in Calumet County are arraigned at Chilton.

Officials Request Law

Froehlich's proposed law was requested by city officials and Judge Clarence Traeger of Dodge County, who is faced with a similar situation in his area.

"I have received the first draft of legislation that would authorize the prosecution of a city or village ordinance violation in the county court of any county in which the city or village lies, regardless of whether or not the violation occurred in that part of the city or village that lies in said county," Froehlich wrote Mayor George Buckley.

Froehlich said he was also sending copies of the proposal to the city's legal department and County Judge Gusfave Keller for their comments and suggestions.

Law To Help Economy

"I believe this legislation, if enacted, will represent a step forward in efficiency and economy in the trying of these ordinance violations," Froehlich said.

The amendment to the law also would authorize prosecution of a traffic ordinance violation occurring on a road which coincides with a county boundary line in either county.

Public Works Board Seeking Sewer Bids

KAUKAUNA — The board of public works is seeking bids for installation of about 750 feet of sanitary sewer, bids to be filed with the city clerk by 4:30 p.m. Jan. 3.

Details on the installation of the 8-inch sewer are available from the clerk or city engineer. Bids will be opened at 6:30 p.m. on the same day.

Woman Hit by Car In Downtown Appleton

Mrs. Charles Rigden, 536 N. Morrison St., was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital by Lindy's Ambulance after she was struck by a car at N. Appleton and Midway Streets in downtown Appleton about 8:15 a.m. today.

Appleton police said the woman received right hip and knee injuries.

Police were told she walked into the path of a car driven by Robert Ziegler, 42, route 1, Appleton. Ziegler had just dropped off a passenger when the accident occurred.

Woman Loses Wallet In Downtown Appleton

Mrs. John Landwehr, route 2, Black Creek, told Appleton Police Tuesday afternoon that she lost her wallet, containing $165, while shopping downtown.

Mrs. Landwehr said she discovered the loss when she purchased groceries. She said the wallet is pink and contains her driver's license and other identification.

Area Churches Involved

Methodists, EUB Plan Program at Kaukauna

KAUKAUNA — Plans are being made for a New Life Mission to be held Feb. 5-12 at the Methodist Church.

The Rev. Joe Hale, one of Methodism's best-known young pastors and a leader of Methodist evangelism to college students, will be guest speaker.

Committees have been appointed and planning meetings will be held early next week to work out details of the program.

Congregations sharing in the mission will be the Brillion and Stockbridge Methodist churches and the Forest Junction, Brillion, Lark, Rantoul and Reedsville Evangelical United Brethren churches.

The Kaukauna church is part of a district-wide mission of Spiritual Renewal that will be carried out with programs in Appleton, Poysippi, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac and other centers.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Speener have been named general chairmen and W. A. Baer, chairman of the commission on evangelism.

Ralph Bastian will be in charge of the ambassadors committee; Mrs. Wayne Hull, attendance; Donald Kott, advertising; Baer, materials; Hal Lindell, arrangements; Irving Curry, finances; Mrs. Ronald Goolsbey, youth; Mrs. Walter Weihmuller, groups; Mrs. David Grunwaldt, nursery, and John Wuellner, worship and music.

Parishoners have been assigned duties on various committees. The Rev. Lester Ott, pastor, will coordinate the program.

State Teachers Unit Claims Unfairness

Appleton District One of Seven Charged With Discrimination Against Local Educational Unions

The Appleton School District has been charged with discrimination against one of two groups which represent teachers in its system.

The local district and six others in the state have been charged by the Wisconsin Federation of Teachers (WFT) with discriminating against its members by withholding wages of teachers who attended a WTF convention in Milwaukee last October.

Miss Jeraldine Marchant, WFT director, said this morning that complaints were filed Tuesday with the Wisconsin Employment Relations Board, charging the seven districts with practices prohibited under employment laws.

No official announcement has been received by the board of education or the superintendent's office in Appleton. Richard DeBroux, president of the Appleton Teachers Union (ATU) affiliate of WFT, refused to comment.

Problem Began Aug. 26

The problem first appeared Aug. 26 when a letter was received by the Appleton board from the ATU requesting that all teachers in the ATU be allowed to attend the October convention with full pay.

One month later, the ATU decided to compromise "because of the changes in dates of the WFT convention and the difficulty in changing the calendar at this time," according to a letter written by DeBroux.

In the letter, the union proposed the following compromises:

—All officers and delegates of ATU be allowed to attend the convention with no reduction in pay.

—Members of ATU not be required to be at school on the Wisconsin Education Association convention dates (Nov. 4 and 5) and that no additional days be added on to the present schedule.

Want Dates on Calendar

—The dates for the WFT convention in 1967 be placed on next year's calendar so that all ATU members will be able to attend their convention next year.

—The above proposals be subject to a later ruling by the WERB.

At that time the Appleton Board of Education ruled that five delegates and five officers be allowed to attend the convention but without pay. Subsequently, eight members of the ATU attended the convention.

The board did not make a decision on the last two points of compromise, pointing out the WERB had the final say on the subject.

The decision by the board was based on elections in the spring of 1965, which were held in Appleton to determine the official bargaining union for the teachers.

The Appleton Education Association, members of the Wisconsin Education Association, was selected as the teacher organi-

Alderman Is Still Pushing Park Curfew

Ayers Not Satisfied With Present 11 p.m. Anti-Loitering Law

Ald. John Ayers (12th) said Tuesday he will continue to push for a curfew law to regulate activities in Appleton parks.

Ayers, chairman of the council's public safety committee, said he was not satisfied by the position taken by the park-recreation commission.

Asked to approve or reject a proposed park curfew ordinance, the commission took no action and said there is an 11 p.m. anti-loitering law on the books.

Early Closing

However, Ayers and other committee members feel an earlier curfew hour — 9 p.m. or 10 p.m. — should receive the endorsement of the commission.

Police Chief Earl O. Wolff told the committee, "A curfew will help."

Officials dropped a suggestion made earlier in the year by Mayor George Buckley, that a city-wide curfew law be put into effect.

The committee said it would ask to hold a joint meeting next month with the commission to pursue the park curfew proposal.

Consider CATV

In another action, the committee decided to meet next week with the street-sanitation commitee concerning a proposed CATV ordinance.

Alds. Ayers and R. P. Groh (8th) said they had reservations about a model ordinance which appeared on the desks of aldermen at last week's council meeting.

"I think the CATV franchise should be let out on bids, with the city accepting the highest bidder," Ayers commented.

Little Chute Gets Okay for Water Tank

MADISON (AP)— The village of Little Chute in Outagamie County received Public Service Commission approval today to build a second elevated water storage tank at a cost of $118,092.

The village said the added capacity is needed to meet requirements for fire protection.

(McMahon Associates, Inc. of Menasha, engineering firm for the village, now is drawing plans and specifications for the project. It is hoped to advertise for bids in the spring. The tower will be located at the end of Jefferson Street at the No. 2 well site already owned by the village.)

In another action the commission authorized the Wisconsin Natural Gas Co. of Milwaukee to provide service to the towns of Richmond and Whitewater in Walworth County. Cost was estimated at $443,653.

But Short of Expectations

Fox Cities Holiday Sales Show Gains Over 1965 Season

BY DICK LYNEIS
Post-Crescent Business Editor

Major Fox Cities retailers indicated in a survey taken today that Christmas shopping receipts were slightly higher than a year ago, but far short of expectations.

While seasonal sales receipts showed gains of between 6 and 10 per cent during the 1965 Christmas shopping season, increases for the 1966 seasons ranged only between 1 and 4 per cent.

Although sales were up, the volume hit retailers who were hoping for sales increases of between 7 and 10 per cent over last year. As a result, many Fox Cities retailers were caught with year-end inventories exceeding their expectations. However, no stores reported plans for emergency post Christmas sales to clear stocks of unsold merchandise.

About the only post-Christmas sales which appeared to be in order were the traditional tinsel, tree ornaments and greeting cards.

Expected Increase

One major store reported sales receipts which were "only a hair over last year. We expected sales increases of 10 per cent over 1965," an executive said, "but it ended up to be around 1 per cent. We don't blame this entirely on the economy," he added, "because we were planning to increase our share of the market over what we expected in gains from the economy, but we failed to do it."

Another spokesman said "the buying public wasn't as optimistic as we were. We were hoping for a 7 to 8 per cent boost, but it turned out to be in the neighborhood of 4 per cent."

A local manager for a major coast-to-coast retailer wouldn't give any figures, but said he expected sales receipt from the final week of Christmas shopping would push volume "slightly ahead of last year."

Cites "Uncertainty"

Still another big retailer reported sales increases which exceeded last year's by about 3 per cent, but that the gain "was only about 75 per cent of what we expected."

Few people gave reasons or thought they knew reasons for the disappointing Christmas shopping sales.

"My best guess," the manager of one store said, "is that there was a little bit of uncertainty and people didn't want to go into debt when they don't know what is coming economically in 1967."

Another executive said that he wouldn't even venture a guess.

"The shopping habits were so different than they were in the past," he said, "and they were shoping at such different times and in such different ways, that it can't be pegged on the economic situation. Besides," he added, "the Fox Valley had just as propserous a year as any year in the past."

The most typical view was expressed by a department store official who said the overall slackening in retail store sales reflected the fact that "the pace of our entire economy has slowed slightly. The government has succeeded in doing what it has been trying to do. Washington wanted this slowdown and I think they got it."

The natural expectation would be that shoppers were looking for more inexpensive gifts this year than in the past and that purchases of these items were responsible for the dip in anticipated sales receipts. But, according to retailers, this wasn't so.

"There didn't appear to be

Little Chute Man Injured Near Readfield

Ronald J. Fleming Taken to Hospital In New London

WAUPACA—A Little Chute man was hospitalized at the New London Community Hospital with lacerations to his chin and injuries to his left leg, in one of the two single-car accidents which occurred on Waupaca County highways during the three day Christmas weekend.

Ronald J. Fleming, 20, 817 Adams St., Little Chute, lost control of his car at 2:30 a.m. Monday on U.S. 10 in Readfield.

According to county police, Fleming was traveling east. The car ran into the ditch, struck a stump and then rolled over, coming to rest against a tree. The 1953 model car was demolished.

In the other accident, Gaylord G. Pingel, 19, route 2, Waupaca, escaped injury when the car he was driving went out of control 1½ miles south of Weyauwega on County Trunk X at 1 a.m. Saturday. The car struck a tree and fence before coming to a stop against a large rock. Damage to the car was estimated at more than $300.

Housing for Aged Planned in N-M

NEENAH - MENASHA — Low cost housing for the elderly has taken a spurt during the past year in the State of Wisconsin and specific plans for the senior citizens who need such facilities in the Twin Cities will get underway in March, 1967.

James F. McMichael, director of the State Commission on Aging, said today in Madison that the Twin Cities should move without delay to form its local unit for such a housing development, that his commission is more than anxious to supply staff which will give professional assistance and that federal monies for such projects are being allocated rapidly.

"Wisconsin had been considered the slowest state in the region in developing low cost housing for the elderly as of a year ago," McMichael reported. "We are now leading the nation in the total number of projects being developed."

Driver Escapes Without Injury In Train Collision

NEENAH — Leonard M. Kaczmarzyk, 28, 1051 Laurel Court, escaped without injuries after his car was struck by a switch engine at the Cecil Street crossing around 5:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Police said the Kaczmarzyk vehicle was headed west on Ceil when it crossed the Soo Line tracks and was struck broadside by the engine. He told authorities he saw the flashing signals but when he approached the tracks they turned off.

Vaughn Krumbien, route 1, Fond du Lac, a Soo Line conductor, said the engine was traveling at about 5 miles an hour at the time of the crash.

California Birth Rate Falls to Lowest Point Since World War II

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—California's birth rate dropped in 1966 to the lowest level in 25 years, the State Health Department reported today.

It was the third straight year the rate has fallen.

The department said that the total of 345,000 births in 1966 represented about 18 per 1,000 persons. There were 9,000 fewer births in 1966 than in 1965.

The rate hasn't been so low since 1941, when there were 17.3 births per 1,000.

The department gave no reason for the decline in births.

Family of 6 Dies In Vermont Fire

PANTON, Vt. (AP)—A family of six persons perished early today when flames leveled a two-story home in the Lake Champlain Valley here.

The victims were identified as Gerald Warren, 42; his wife, Dolores, 38; a son, Gerald Jr., 16; daughters Frances, 17, and Barbara, 1½, and Warren's mother, Florence Warren, 74, of Syracuse, N.Y.

A guest at the Warrens' rural home, near Vergennes, William Stier Jr., Syracuse, escaped the flames and ran to a neighbor's house to report the blaze.

He was taken to a Burlington hospital where he was treated for shock.

3 Persons, Including 2 Young Drivers, Injured In Outagamie Mishaps

Three persons, including two young drivers, were injured in two accidents on Outagamie County roads Tuesday night.

Miss Kay Vande Wettering, 18, route 1, Kaukauna, suffered a neck injury and bruises, and Orrin Zick, 16, route 2, Black Creek, sustained leg, head, and arm injuries when their cars collided at County Trunks E and S about 11:10 p.m. Tuesday.

Both young people were taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital by Lindy's Ambulance. Details of the accident were still being investigated by Outagamie County police.

Dr. W. H. Towne, 121 E. Main St., Hortonville, received a bump on the head when his car left Broadway Drive east of State 76 early Tuesday evening.

Police also were attempting to learn the details of that accident.

Longtime Area Doctor, Dr. Brunckhorst Dies

NEENAH — Dr. Frank O. Brunckhorst, 85, who started his career as a doctor driving a horse and buggy in Hortonville and spent 26 years as Neenah's city health officer, died this morning.

Dr. Frank O. Brunckhorst

It was ten years ago that the State Medical Society honored Dr. Brunckhorst for fifty years of service as a doctor.

Born in Kewaunee in 1881, he made his way first to the University of Wisconsin where he tried his hand at a commerce course. He soon changed his mind and went to St. Louis University medical school where he was graduated in 1906.

After internship and a further period of study in New York, he opened an office in Hortonville in 1910. He practiced among the people there until 1917 when the war took him to France with the medical corps.

For 22 months he wore an army uniform, much of the time with the 89th Division.

After the war he returned to Hortonville and stayed there until October, 1929, when he moved to Neenah. Eight years later he became Neenah's health officer.

He was a member of the St. Elizabeth Hospital Staff and an honorary member of the Theda Clark Hospital staff.

When he retired from the city health position in 1962, his successor said, "That man did the city a thoroughly valuable service for so many years, and so did his wife. We as citizens owe them both a debt of gratitude, that's all I can say."

Dr. Brunckhorst had been residing at the Grand Army Home at King.

Survivors include his wife, Amelia, and two sisters, Miss Lucy Brunckhorst, Milwaukee, and Mrs. Elizabeth Janda, Kewaunee, and a niece.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Friday at First Presbyterian Chapel in Neenah. Dr. John E. Bouquet will officiate. Burial will be in Wisconsin Veterans Memorial Cemetery at King.

A memorial has been established for the memorial fund of the First Presbyterian Church.

Friends may call at the Kessler Funeral Home from 4 p.m. Thursday until noon Friday. Military rites will be conducted at graveside.

City Employes Get $111,000 Pay Increases

Appleton Official Makes Estimate From Council Action

An estimated 300 Appleton municipal employes, including clerical, will share in $111,000 in pay raises, effective Jan. 1.

The estimate was made today by Personnel Director J. W. Rusch on the basis of actions approved by the council in recent weeks.

Contracts Open

However, there are about 125 city workers in the department of public works and at the sewage treatment plant who have not settled on contracts for the coming year.

Firemen and policemen received wage increases amounting to $88,000, according to terms of their one-year contracts.

Salary adjustments granted general city workers last week, including appointive department heads, will amount to $23,000.

Will Meet

Rusch said the council's personnel committee, headed by Ald. John MacDonald (7th) will meet with negotiators for Local 563 of the Teamsters International Jan. 5 to resume contract talks.

Future meetings also are being scheduled between the committee and representatives of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes, AFL-CIO, who represent sewage disposal plant workmen.

The Teamsters also are negotiating for employes at the Appleton City Home, but no date has been set for resumption of talks.

Teachers Union Claims District Discrimination

zation with exclusive rights to bargain on conditions of employment, hours and wages.

No Request Received

When this year's calendar was drawn up and approved by the board and the teachers in the spring, the request of the ATU for the two days for convention had not been received.

In previous years both conventions were at the same time in November.

At that time board members decided that since all teachers receive pay for the two-day convention in November, whether they attend it or not. ATU delegates were not entitled to the two days of pay in October.

Contracts in Appleton are for 190 days, 180 of which are teaching days.

Claim Discrimination

The complaints filed by the federation Tuesday charge the districts with discriminating against WFT members by denying them wages during the time they attended a federation convention but continuing wages to teachers attending the WEA convention.

This action, Miss Marchant said, tends to encourage membership in the WEA at the expense of WFT membership.

Other districts involved in the complaint are West Bend, Two Rivers, Milwaukee, South Milwaukee, Madison and Fond du Lac.

Miss Marchant said the WERB is being asked to consolidate the complaints into a single hearing in Madison.

Northside Men Air Complaints On Traffic

route because of the traffic signals the county erected.

Rasmussen said the City of Appleton has jurisdiction over only a small portion of Northland.

Quevillon said the proposed plan for rejuvenation of the Wisconsin Avenue shopping district and provision of off-street parking facilities eventually called for elimination of parking on both sides of the avenue.

"By the time that happens, you will have adequate off-street parking for the activity being generated in your area," Ald. John Ayers (12th), committee chairman, told Quevillon.

Need Parking

Sylvester Parker, owner of a laundry business on the avenue north of Richmond Street, said bluntly, "Without parking, we're dead."

The northside delegation did praise the city for preparing its new comprehensive plan for the Wisconsin Avenue business district. "We have received fine cooperation from Walt Rasmussen and regional planning officials," Quevillon declared.

He said before such a plan existed, merchants didn't really know what they wanted.

The committee said it would check into the delay on the left-turn signal frequency authorizations.

Radiator Letting Off Steam Causes 2 Runs For Appleton Firemen

Appleton firemen were called to the 300 block of E. Wisconsin Avenue about 4:10 p.m. Tuesday on what they were told was a car fire.

However, firemen found a radiator boiling over, and steam pouring from a car owned by Gilbert Stecker, 812 W. Spring St. There was no fire.

Firemen had been called five minutes earlier to the 1700 block of N. Union Street when someone else saw steam coming from the Stecker car and thought it was afire. The car was gone from N. Union Street when firemen arrived.

$78 Reported Missing In Kimberly Break-In

KIMBERLY — Slightly more than $78 was reported stolen from Hofkens Building and Supply Co., 151 S. Railroad St., sometime Monday, according to village police.

Entry was gained through a service door and the lock on an office door was pried open. Money was taken from the cash drawer of an open safe. Exit was made through a shop window, police noted.

Little Chute Man Loses Car to Thief

KAUKAUNA — Larry LeVeque, 1023 Depot St., Little Chute, complained to Kaukauna police that his 1963 model car was stolen sometime Tuesday night while it was parked in front of a business place at 173 W. Wisconsin Ave.

He told police the keys were left in the car.

anything special this year in people's buying habits. Everything was pretty much across the board," a manager pointed out, "except for early seasonal variations which were due to a warmer weather pattern which resulted in less cold weather apparel sales than we expected."

Same Effects

An official of a major competitor agreed. "People," he said, "weren't shopping for more or less expensive gifts. Our big items sold just as well as our small items. All departments felt pretty much the same effects."

While luxury items such as perfumes and jewelry were down at many stores, several dealers reported good sales in such major electronic items as color television sets plus kitchen and table appliances. Toys seemed to be the one item that had receipts to match expectations. One merchant said his toy sales receipts were up 16 per cent from 1965.

The reason for no unusually high inventories seems to have been caution. "We don't have any unusually high inventories," one man said, "because we keep a pretty tight inventory control."

Others said inventories were no problem "because we buy only by trends" and "because we purchased more carefully due to our doubts about the economic situation."

Judge Continues Case For Youth Who Admits Attempt to Take Car

Sentencing was continued to Jan. 13 this morning for David M. Gasper, 18, 419 E. Harding St., after he pleaded guilty of attempting to take a car without the owner's consent on Oct. 13.

Gasper entered the plea after he was bound over to the upper branch of Outagamie County Court. He is represented by court-appointed counsel. Judge Gustave J. Keller ordered a presentence investigation.

Gasper, who has been in Central State Hospital since October, was arrested by Appleton police who said he attempted to take a car owned by James Lopas while the car was parked in the 1200 block of N. Summit Street.

Gasper is being held in jail in lieu of posting $2,000 bond.

Conditional Bartender Permit Gets Approval

Would Allow Temporary Bartending In Appleton Until Issuance of License

Issuance of a conditional bartender permit, which would allow an applicant to tend bar in Appleton until his license request is granted by the council, was recommended Tuesday night by the council's welfare-ordinance committee.

The proposed amendment to the existing ordinance would serve as a convenience to the applicant for a bartender's license while also allowing the police department six weeks to check the individual's background.

However, a question as to its legality exists and City Atty. David Geenen will be asked to render an opinion.

Delays Objected To

In the past, persons obtaining bartending jobs locally have complained about the delay encountered in receiving a license.

(The mayor, by virtue of the power of his office, now can approve the issuance of a license pending final approval of the committee and council.

(Two years ago when the committee gave conditional approval to license requests, the Wisconsin State Beverage and Tax Division ordered it to cease such a practice, which it did.)

The applicant with the longest wait files his license request the day after a council meeting or after the welfare-ordinance committee meets.

In some instances, police have been criticized for "taking too long" in obtaining information on applicants for the committee.

Checks Made

Any person applying for an operator's license is checked to see if he has had any local violations. In addition, his fingerprints are sent to the FBI for additional background check.

Police Chief Earl O. Wolff and the committee have either approved or denied license requests after obtaining the necessary information.

Any person granted a $5 license must also obtain a chest x-ray before being permitted to tend bar in Appleton.

Ald. Clifford Radder (16th) appeared before the committee and opposed conditional issuance of licenses, claiming the aldermen were shirking their duty and shifting committee responsibility to others.

Under the new proposal, the applicant will receive a conditional permit from the city clerk's office after Chief Wolff indicates the individual has no local record. Once FBI clearance is received, the committee will then recommend issuance of a license by the council.

While Radder said the conditional permit represented a compromise, the veteran northside alderman also indicated he didn't like it.

Ald. Richard Huisman (1st) said an applicant for a bartender's license should be permitted to go to work when he has a job opportunity and said the city could always take away his permit or license.

It was Radder's opinion that 90 per cent of the applicants for an operator's license usually hold two jobs. "I don't see any sense of urgency," Radder said. "A few weeks delay in checking them out properly won't hurt anything."

But the committee did not agree with Radder and said the conditional permit idea would represent a compromise providing such a policy is legal.

The church will receive $1,000, as will Mrs. Leone Heimmerman, 3526 N. Richmond St., an acquaintance of the widow who came to Appleton in 1947, and who lived at Peabody Manor at the time of her death.

The remainder of Mrs. Heck's estate was willed to her brother, Oscar Mann, 87, Lakewood, Ohio. Nearly all of the woman's estate consisted of personal property, according to the final judgement of the will probated in Outagamie County Court, Branch 1.

Marx Names Spice County Undersheriff For Two-Year Term

Norbert J. Marx, Outagamie County sheriff-elect, today officially named Calvin L. Spice as his undersheriff for a two-year term beginning Jan. 3.

Spice has served as sheriff for two full terms and thus was ineligible to seek re-election for the 1967-68 term. Marx, who has been Spice's undersheriff both terms, indicated some time ago that he intended to appoint Spice.

The action became official today with the submitting of a letter of appointment to County Clerk Mollie E. Pfeffer.

No. 1 of Wisconsin's Bright yellow reflective license plates for 1967, which will appear on Wisconsin passenger car plates shortly after the New Year, is examined by James L. Karns, left, motor vehicle commissioner, and Gov. Warren P. Knowles, whose car customarily bears the No. 1 plate.

Reflects 1,500 Feet

Wisconsin to Issue Yellow License Plates

Bright yellow reflective license plates will begin appearing on Wisconsin passenger cars shortly after the New Year, it was reported by the Motor Vehicle Department. Some trucks already display the new plates.

James L. Karns, Motor Vehicle Commissioner, announced that 1967 passenger car renewal notices began going into the mails Tuesday.

Use of the new plates will gradually spread across the entire passenger car numbering system as the year advances. Vehicles registered in the later months of the year, such as December, will retain their present white on maroon plates until next December.

Extra Cost

As previously announced, the 1967 reflective plates will carry an extra fee of 15 cents a year to cover the cost of reflectorization and the heavier-gauge aluminum alloy, which lasts four years.

The plates with reflective backgrounds include those for ordinary autos, the disabled, disabled veterans, amateur radio operators, star official, trucks weighing 10,000 pounds or less, and motorcycles.

Most motor vehicle registrations other than those for passenger cars fall due at the beginning of each calendar year and renewal notices for those vehicles were issued by the Motor Vehicle Department in December.

Hortonville Man Charged In Fatal Crash

Roger A. Hansen, 24, route 1, Hortonville, charged in connection with a two-car fatal accident Nov. 23, pleaded innocent Tuesday afternoon of operating his auto on the left side of the highway.

Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller set trial for June 19. Hansen was freed on $100 bond.

A charge was filed against the Hortonville man following a coroner's inquest Dec. 20.

Hansen was driving a car that was involved in a headon crash on U.S. 45 near County Trunk BB. Killed in the other car, which was driven by Waino Kleimola of Racine, was Miss Ann Blandi, 26, also of Racine.

An Outagamie County policeman testified at the inquest that the accident apparently occurred in Kleimola's lane of traffic, indicating that the Hansen car had strayed over the center line.

Green Bay Site for Alice Contest Finals

The competition will be held June 8-10 in the Brown County Arena, it was announced by the sponsoring Wisconsin Department of Agriculture.

Fourteen regional contests are to be held in May with two girls from each regional event chosen to compete in the finals at Green Bay.

Wisconsin's Health

Public Health Statistics Useful Volume for Many

BY E. H. JORRIS M.D.
State Health Officer

The real estate developer in Kenosha, the insurance actuary in Stevens Point, the children's furniture manufacturer in northeastern Wisconsin, and the college administrator in Madison are representative of the persons who will welcome and will use the current volume "Public Health Statistics, Wisconsin, 1965," which is now being distributed. The book, which constitutes a sort of annual health status report, is a product of the Statistical Services of the Division of Vital Statistics of the State Board of Health.

For the real estate developer data on marriage and divorce coupled with other vital data provide a basic indicator of future housing needs. The insurance actuary starts with the records of two vital events, birth and death, and with supplementary data is then enabled to calculate the risks his company will face, the premiums it should charge, and other probabilities. Similar dependence on vital statistics is evident in other professional, commercial and academic applications. Virtually every type of planning is based on vital statistics.

In the 96 pages that comprise this report there are 28 tables and 10 graphs providing the basic vital statistics of Wisconsin for the year 1965. Three morsels of information are particularly noticeable in this compilation: (1) In 1965, Wisconsin's birth rate declined for the sixth consecutive year and resulted in the largest numerical decrease that has ever been recorded for a single year; (2) The number of marriages increased for the third consecutive year, and (3) Wisconsin did not experience a single case of poliomyelitis, or a death from this disease, during 1965.

Total births dropped to 82,919, which is 5,991 fewer than the 88,910 births tallied in 1964 and is the greatest numerical drop in births ever registered in Wisconsin. The 1965 birth total is the smallest number in the past 15 years. The birth rate, which is the number of births per 1,000 of estimated population, is 20.0 and this is the lowest rate since 1941.

An almost 6 per cent increase in the number of marriages was experienced in 1965. This is the third consecutive year of increases in marriages. The number in 1965 was 26,410, up from 26,832 in 1964 and 25,678 in 1963. The marriage and birth relationship was changed, however; until 1963 each increase in the number of marriages was followed by an increase in the number of births.

An increase in the number of deaths was shown in 1965; the 40,146 total was 1,274 greater than the 38,872 deaths in 1964. The death rate of 9.97 per 1,000 of estimated population, however, is relatively constant and is about the same as it has been since 1948.

The leading causes of death continue to be (1) diseases of the heart, with 16,106 deaths; (2) cancer, 6,803 deaths; (3) strokes, which are tabulated as vascular lesions, 4,436 deaths; (4) accidents, 2,204 deaths; and (5) influenza and pneumonia, 1,167 deaths.

The wealth of information encompassed in the tables and charts in the printed volume tends to obscure the fact that much supplementary and complementary data is also available. The index of "Public Health Statistics, 1965" lists more than 20 tables that space limitations preclude from the printed volume. These and other statistical studies may be had on request.

Westmoreland Being Eyed as GOP Prospect

Small Group Ready To Propose Him if Gov. Romney Falters

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Under circumstances that could almost be described as conspiratorial, a small but glittering group of top-level Republicans met several months ago, pledged itself to total secrecy and discussed the Presidential possibilities of Gen. William Westmoreland, now commanding all U.S. troops in Vietnam.

Novak

The purpose of the discussion, which was held before Gov. George Romney of Michigan swept to a record third-term victory in Michigan, was simple and to the point: If Romney came out poorly in the 1966 election, or if he stumbled in his pre-convention build-up of 1967 and early 1968, to whom should the Republican Party turn for a man to beat President Johnson?

The participants, in other words, were first and foremost Romney men. Their common concern was that if Romney couldn't get nominated in 1968, the party might wind up in the kind of vicious, bitter-end struggle that broke it in two in 1964, when many liberal Republicans refused to accept Barry Goldwater as the party Presidential nominee.

The one man, they agreed, who could best unite all elements of the Republican Party in the event Romney fails was Westmoreland.

So secret was the meeting that no list of participants exists today. From well-informed Republican sources, however, we have established that Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York was fully apprised of the discussion about Westmoreland and that one of his brothers, Chase Manhattan Bank Chairman David Rockefeller, is an activist in the affair.

Impressed with General

David Rockefeller personally went to Saigon last fall to open up the newest Chase branch office in Saigon. But his more important purpose was to discuss a wide range of affairs with the square-jawed, handsome, 52-year-old Westmoreland. And according to those who know, Rockefeller came away highly impressed with the general.

Furthermore, at the meeting of Republican governors in Colorado Springs early this month, Gov. Rockefeller was discussing the Republican Presidential prospects of Romney with a few key staff aides in his hotel suite one night. Someone asked what would happen if Romney couldn't make the grade.

"In that case," replied Rockefeller, "you'd have to think about Westmoreland."

The remark fits neatly into the few facts that are known about the secret meeting last summer. The Westmoreland gambit is based on the assumption, regarded by realists here as virtually irrefutable, that the war in Vietnam will still be going strong throughout 1968. If that assumption is correct, Vietnam will be the overriding issue of the Presidential campaign, with President Johnson avoidably on the defensive.

Knows More About The War

Westmoreland, as the U.S. commander in the field, knows more about the war than any other American. Furthermore, he is also credited with having a sophisticated understanding of the political and social forces at work in South Vietnam that go beyond the ken of most military men. Nor has he allowed himself to get into a public dispute of any kind with the Johnson administration, even though some of his recommendations to the joint chiefs of staff, and theirs to the President, have been sternly resisted by Mr. Johnson.

On the negative side of a Westmoreland candidacy is the hard historical fact that no general not fresh from a great military triumph has ever been elected President. The two most conspicuous examples — Grant and Eisenhower — both rode to the White House on the victory wave of the Civil War and World War Two.

Westmoreland, a native of South Carolina whose politics, like General Eisenhower's, has always been muted, would return to the U.S. not as a victorious field commander but as the on-the-spot leader who could (as the Republicans would be sure to say) "finish the job" that President Johnson had been unable to finish.

As for himself, the general has consciously tried to stay out of political speculation. But recently in Saigon, intimates of the general confided that although he had never mixed in the politics of Washington, he "might have to do so in the future." It was neither a promise nor a threat, but a simple statement of fact.

A few kind words from your passengers

Let's start with these four words — we think you're great!

When Air Wisconsin started 16 months ago, there may have been doubts and questions about your future. You answered these in the only way which really matters, by providing top-flight, professional, convenient and smart-looking air transportation for this entire area. Along with thousands of other passengers, people from our companies tried it . . . liked it . . . and now use it more and more! You've grown and succeeded by offering a fine air-age service, and we're grateful to all of you for doing this.

Now that you've taken the big step of introducing new and bigger jet-props, your future should be even brighter. As frequent business passengers, we want you to know how important you are to the businesses of this area. Your fast, convenient flights bring important visitors to our offices. And almost every day our own people and products fly with you.

Flames Trap Passengers

Truck-Train Crash Kills 12

EVERETT, Mass. (AP) — A Boston & Maine one-car diesel passenger train smashed into a fuel oil truck stalled with frozen brakes on a street crossing early today. Twelve persons died as flames engulfed the train and the truck.

Officials said there may have been up to 35 persons aboard the train. No definite check was available on the number aboard the local run.

Chelsea Fire Chief Herbert Fothergill said most of the victims were trapped in the train for 20 minutes until the fire was put out. He said firemen used their bare hands to extricate the passengers.

A fireman said one door was blocked "because there was a body lying on the other side."

'So Much Smoke'

Policeman Ralph DeVito said he and officer George Stewart "tried breaking the windows with our night sticks but that wouldn't work. We couldn't open the door because there was this guy trying to get out the door with his head stuck through the window.

"We pushed him away but then there was so much smoke we couldn't see."

Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston said it received nine dead from burns and four injured. Whidden Hospital in Everett said it received two dead and 10 injured.

Chelsea Naval Hospital received one dead and two injured. One injured was taken to Chelsea Memorial Hospital.

Stalled on Tracks

Police said the driver of the fuel truck, Raymond Bouley, 29, of Billerica told them his brakes froze as he reached the crossing on Second Street and the vehicle stalled.

He said while he was trying to restart the truck, the gates came down on both sides of the crossing and he heard the train approaching. He said he ran down the tracks and tried to flag down the train with his jacket.

Bouley was treated for shock at Whidden and released.

Graham Tells of Ambush in Truce

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham said Tuesday he talked with a soldier who was wounded in a Christmas Day cease-fire ambush.

Arriving from a 10-day tour of Vietnam, Graham told a news conference that five soldiers were ambushed during the truce period while they were eating a Christmas dinner. He said three were killed and two suffered injuries.

Remarks Upset Vatican

Spellman Still Wants to Win

SAIGON (AP) — Francis Cardinal Spellman stood firm today on his call for nothing less than U.S. victory in Vietnam despite reports that the Vatican was upset by his remarks.

"Whatever I said, I stand by it," the 77-year-old Roman Catholic archbishop of New York told a newsman before ending his Christmas visit with U.S. servicemen in Vietnam and flying to the Philippines.

Although the Vatican would make no official comment, unofficial sources there said the cardinal's statement that anything less than victory in Vietnam "is inconceivable" caused concern and perplexity. These sources said such declarations seemed to be out of keeping with the efforts of Pope Paul VI to encourage a negotiated end to the war.

'Militant Sermons'

The Soviet government paper Izvestia charged the cardinal's "militant sermons" were "in sharp dissonance with recent statements of Pope Paul who appealed for an end to the bloody killing." North Vietnam denounced the cardinal as a "reactionary under a priest cloak" and charged he had "loudly clamored for the intensification of the U.S. aggressive war."

The cardinal's statement, made during a Christmas Eve sermon, also referred to the Vietnam fighting as a "war for civilization."

En route to Saigon's Tan Son Nhut Airport today, he told patients at the U.S. Army's 3rd Field Hospital: "All America should be grateful to you. The men in the armed forces have saved our civilization in past years. You are preserving it."

Cardinal Spellman, who is Roman Catholic military vicar of the U.S. armed forces, was accompanied by U.S. Army physicians throughout his six-day visit. He declared several times this was his last trip abroad to visit U.S. servicemen at Christmas. It was his 16th consecutive Christmas visit to the forces overseas.

Tax Hike May be Difficult to Avoid

By JAMES R. POLK

MADISON (AP) — Gov. Warren P. Knowles must slash as much as $150 million or more off state spending requests this week or face at last a tax increase he has tried to elude.

The governor has sealed himself inside the executive mansion to work with fiscal aides from dawn past dusk on the $1.2 billion rough draft of the budget he will offer to the 1967 legislature.

There is evidence that the secret administration estimates of of how much tax revenue Wisconsin will have available to bankroll the budget will fall short by $125 million to $245 million.

Knowles has pinned his public hopes repeatedly on the prospect that a booming economy would bring in enough money to avoid the first major tax increase in 10 years. But now the zoom has gone out of that boom.

8 Per Cent Growth

The spending requests handed the GOP governor are 35 per cent above the present state budget. The most optimistic estimates on how much the economy will grow next year stop below 8 per cent.

Knowles' staff has labeled the normal holiday lull between Christmas and New Year's Day as "decision week" as the governor pares and prunes the spending programs.

Stated starkly, the decision that must be made pivots between a tax hike or heavy slashes in proposed spending.

The spending cuts might have to slice deeply into education, especially the universities. The biggest budgets and the bulging spending boosts, by and large, are those asked by higher education.

On the other hand, any suggestion of a tax increase could

State Patrol Checks

1,730 Unsafe at Any Speed

MADISON (AP) — State highway patrolmen say a check of 4,455 cars since mid-December disclosed 1,730 instances of substandard equipment.

Maj. Charles Litkey of the state patrol said Tuesday that citations were issued to 25 drivers for such violations as lacking a driver's license or vehicle registration, and that 957 tickets were issued ordering correction of equipment.

The 1,730 instances of improper equipment include some cars having more than one violation, he said. Most of the equipment violations concerned brakes, horns, directional lights, tail lights and stop lights, he said.

Gov. Warren P. Knowles asked the State Highway Patrol to conduct spot checks throughout the state in an effort to slow the state's record-setting traffic death toll.

The patrol, Litkey said, is making checks in rural and urban areas, and is employing roadblocks in many instances. Officers are working overtime, he said, producing an additional 6,400 man-hours of enforcement requested by Knowles.

Eleven cars normally used by supervisory personnel have been added to the spot check campaign, and will be returned to the supervisory staff after the New Year's holiday period, Litkey said.

Valley Hit by Near Blizzard; Six-Inch Snowfall Expected

High Winds Making Driving Hazardous Throughout State

Strong winds whipped a heavy snowfall through the Fox Valley area this morning, causing near-blizzard conditions, according to the U.S. Weather Bureau in Green Bay.

As much as two inches of new snow fell in parts of central Wisconsin by noon today. Weather forecasts said six or more inches of new snow were likely to fall by the end of the day.

The widespread storm began early this morning in southern Wisconsin and moved steadily northward to cover most of the state by 8 a.m. Predictions said driving snow will diminish into snow flurries tonight and Thursday.

City and county street and road crews started sanding and clearing pavement shortly after the storm began in an attempt to stay ahead of the anticipated accumulation.

Road crews' work was made more difficult by easterly winds of 20 to 25 miles per hour. Weather bureau officials said the winds gusted to more than 30 m.p.h. at times, cutting down visibility and increasing the force of the near blizzard.

Hazardous Driving

Driving conditions were reported hazardous in most of the state. Outlying roads are particularly treacherous in spots sheltered by trees and other obstructions. Clarence Brownson, Outagamie County highway commissioners, today said the heavy winds would keep rural highways generally free from snow drifts until the ditches and roadsides become filled.

If the winds and snowfall continue, Brownon said, drifts can be anticipated on rural roads.

Most Appleton streets were covered by the snow at noon. Sanding crews started work about 7 a.m. today.

Late this afternoon and tonight the winds will shift to the north but retain their velocity, reports from the weather bureau said.

As the winds switch direction, there will be a slight drop in temperatures, the weather bureau reported. Barometric pressure was reported dropping in Appleton late this morning

Large Quake Strikes Chile

Heavy Casualties Feared in Small Town Along Coast

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—A violent earthquake rocked northern Chile early today and heavy casualties were feared in the nitrate port of Taltal, the center of the upheaval.

The Chilean news agency Orbe said 80 per cent of the buildings in Taltal were destroyed and first reports listed one dead and three injured. But this was a preliminary figure. The town, 700 miles north of Santiago, has a population of about 7,000.

The earth shocks were felt over a wide area and were reported strongest in the provinces of Tarapaca and Antofagasta.

The quake was registered in Santiago at 3:20 a.m. EST and by the U.S. Coast and Geodetic Survey in Washington 10 minutes later. The latter said its observatory at Honolulu had issued a warning of a possible seismic sea wave.

S. Vietnamese Report Killing 89 Viet Cong

Search-Destroy Mission in Delta Uses Parachuters

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Thousands of South Vietnamese troops fanned out across canal-laced rice fields deep in the Mekong Delta today and reported killing 89 Viet Cong in two days.

The large-scale search-and-destroy operation was launched Tuesday by ground troops, helicopter-borne units and the Vietnam war's first combat parachute jump in at least two years.

The multiregiment force of Vietnamese infantrymen, paratroopers, armored cavalrymen and Popular Force units descended on a Viet Cong stronghold in Chuong Thien Province 126 miles west-southwest of Saigon. American troops reportedly will be deployed in parts of the delta in the near future.

No Opposition

The paratroopers jumped from 33 planes — 13 U.S. Air Force transports and 20 C47s of the South Vietnamese air force.

Vietnamese headquarters said the paratroopers ran into no opposition when they jumped. Spokesmen declined to say if any of the jumpers were injured. In a previous large-scale jump in April 1964, 40 per cent of the paratroopers were injured in jumping.

A Vietnamese spokesman said government forces killed 29 Viet Cong in the opening phases of the operation and by late today

Annual Associated Press Poll

Vietnam War Again at Top of Nation's News Pages

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Vietnam war, for the second straight year, has been voted the top news story of the year by Associated Press member newspapers and radio and TV stations.

It is a guerrilla war, a helicopter war, a war of Operation Masher, Operation Texas, Operation Hawthorne, Operation El Paso, Operation Hastings, Operation Sgt. Howard, Operation Attleboro.

It is a war Defense Secretary Robert McNamara says our side is winning, and a war we keep trying to stop. Ambassador Arthur Goldberg told the United Nations the U.S. would stop bombing North Vietnam "the moment we are assured North Vietnam would act to reduce its support of the war in the south." Secretary of State Dean Rusk and the President called repeatedly in 1966 for peace talks.

U.S. jets started bombing oil depots near Hanoi and Haiphong June 29. China said American jets shot down a Chinese plane inside China; the U.S. said it was 20 miles from the border over Vietnam. U.S. pilots were paraded in Hanoi and there was a brief threat they would be tried as war criminals. On Aug. 9, U.S. planes bombed civilians in a village and one of our own Coast Guard cutters.

In August, American forces in South Vietnam passed the 300,000 mark. In September, the total American deaths since 1961 passed 5,000.

This was a year scarred by apparently motiveless murders, several of them mass murders. On July 31, Charles Whitman, 24, killed his wife and mother, then climbed to the top of the University of Texas library tower in Austin and began blasting with three rifles, a shotgun and two pistols.

In 80 minutes he killed 14 strangers and wounded 30. An Austin patrolman climbed to a platform above Whitman and shot and killed him.

The off-year election and its heavy wins for the Republican Party is the year's No. 3 story. The GOP picked up three seats in the Senate, 47 in the House of Representatives and eight governorships to bring the party's total to 25.

Some winners, Gov. George Romney in Michigan, Ronald Reagan, elected governor in California, and Charles Percy, elected senator from Illinois, are being eyed as possible presidential timber for 1968.

5. Another shocking mass killing was that of eight student nurses in Chicago, just after midnight July 14. A young man entered a house used as a dormitory by student nurses at South Chicago Community Hospital, bound the nine girls there and strangled or stabbed to death eight of them.

After an intensive manhunt, police on July 17 arrested Richard F. Speck, 24, seaman and drifter. He has pleaded innocent to eight murder indictments.

Words No Problem To Precocious Tot

PADUCAH, Ky. (AP) — As she boarded the plane, Michelle Robins startled the stewardess by asking for a supply of magazines, newspapers and books.

When they arrived, she settled back in her seat and began to enjoy herself.

It was an unusual sight since Michelle is only 34 months old.

"She's been reading ever since she was 14 months old," said Michelle's mother, Maurine Robins, after they arrived here from Midland, Tex., for a visit with relatives.

"We were driving along the highway one day," Mrs. Robins recalled, "and there was a sign in front of a service station. Michelle read it without an error."

Reads It All

The youngster since has graduated to the Bible, religious periodicals, encyclopedias, children's books and just about everything she can get her hands on."

Michelle also will correct you if you mispronounce the name of a species of cactus.

"She loves cactus," said Mrs. Robins. "She can name and identify four varieties. And she uses the proper Mexican pronunciations."

Although Michelle's ability to read is unusual, she has a little trouble with mathematics.

She can count only to 30 and 11 comes out "eleventeen."

What a handicap!

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Our third hand for Bonehead Bridge Week comes, like the first two, from the Team Selection-Tournament held in Pittsburgh last November. South's play seems very reasonable until you think about it — and, of course, an expert who fails to think drops out of the expert class.

West led the four of spades, and declarer shrewdly put up dummy's king. A defender will often open a trump from A-x-x, but not from Q-x-x.

Flushed with triumph, declarer took the queen of diamonds, cashed the top hearts and ruffed a heart in dummy. Then he tried to run some diamonds, but woke up with a jolt when East ruffed the ace of diamonds with the queen of spades.

East shrewdly shifted to a low club, and South played low. West got in with the jack of clubs and led the ace of trumps and his last trump. South eventually had to give up a trick to the king of clubs. Down one.

Blocked Trumps

The clue to the right play lay in the opening lead. West would not have led the low trump from A-x or from A-Q-9-x. It was a cinch that West started with A-x-x of trumps, and East with Q-x.

The trumps were therefore blocked and the defenders could not clear out dummy's trumps without losing a trump trick in the process. Hence there was no hurry about ruffing a heart in dummy.

After taking the queen of diamonds, South should lead a heart to dummy's ace and try to cash the ace of diamonds. East ruffs and returns a low club.

South steps up with the ace of clubs, cashes the king of hearts and gets back to dummy by ruffing a heart. Then he cashes the king of diamonds, discarding a club. Declarer loses only two trumps and a club, making his game contract.

Daily Question

You have opened with one diamond, and partner has responded one heart. It is up to you again, holding: S K 7 6, H A 8, D A K 10 7 6 4, C 8 5.

Answer: Bid two diamonds. If partner cannot find another bid, you will not miss a game. Don't be in a hurry to make a jump rebid when you have only 14 points in high cards.

Tax Bills Mailed At New London

Residents Assessed $608,985 for Real Estate and Personal Property

NEW LONDON — Tax bills totaling $608,985 are greeting city taxpayers today.

About 2,000 notices were put into the mails Tuesday, signaling the late season rush for the city treasurer's office.

Waupaca County residents will pay $453,278 in real estate taxes and $8,365 in personal property tax. Outagamie County residents were billed $129,072 for real estate taxes and $18,270 for personal property.

Receipts Sent by Mail

Taxes may be paid at the treasurer's office or by mail, Treasurer George Groher said. Receipts will be sent by return mail to persons mailing in their payments, he said.

Half the real estate and all of the personal property tax may be paid until Jan. 31 for persons wanting to pay their bill in two installments. The second payment is due by July 31.

Persons making a single payment on the tax billing have until Feb. 28 to pay.

The treasurer's office is open from 8:30 a.m. to noon and 12:30 to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Better Train Service Asked For Appleton

Savings From Train Merger Could Aid Passenger Service

The City of Appleton has been requested to demand improved passenger train service should two Midwest-based railroads be allowed to merge.

Pending before the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) in Washington is the merger application of the Chicago North Western Railway Co. and Milwaukee Road.

A plea for support for his position that improved passenger service be a stipulation attached to the proposed merger was sent Mayor George Buckley recently by Anthony Haswell of Chicago.

Haswell, whose interest in the matter was not indicated, has retained a Chicago law firm to represent him. He recently attempted to intervene, along with ordering the railroad companies to supply cost data, during an ICC hearing.

Appleton's passenger train service has become minimal in recent years. The city is serviced by two Chicago-Milwaukee round trips daily.

"It is my conviction that unless this merger is approved and the merged company required to stay in the passenger service, most if not all of the present rail passenger service in Wisconsin will disappear in the near future," Haswell wrote the mayor.

"I further believe that in return for $20 million in savings as a result of the merger, the railroad has an obligation to provide passenger service which is useful to the traveling public," Haswell added.

He concluded by urging Appleton to support the position and contact the Wisconsin Public Service Commission, Madison, and the ICC in Washington, D. C.

No action has been taken by the council to date. The letter was written Dec. 8.

New London Public Works To Get Radio

Mobile Units in Vehicles to Connect With Base Station

NEW LONDON — A two-way mobile radio unit soon will be installed by the New London board of public works.

The base station will be at the street department garage on W. Wolf River Avenue. A mobile unit will be installed in the station wagon of the director of public works and another unit in the street foreman's truck.

A municipal frequency license was granted by the federal communications commission. A 78-foot tower will be erected.

The unit will have a range of 20 miles.

Ray Pelishek, public works director, said persons wishing to contact him or locate members of the city crew, often are unable to do so until the crews report to the garage or to the city hall office.

Pelishek said the new system was expected to improve communications among the base station, the supervisor, and his office.

WSES Reports Increase In Fox Cities Employment

Upswing Held Down by Lack of Qualified Labor for Job Openings

The Wisconsin State Employment Service reported a slight increase in the number of workers hired by Fox Cities employers through November of this year as compared to 1965, but the increase could have been higher if the labor supply had been greater.

In a monthly manpower report, the employment service said, "Further increases would have been recorded if qualified persons had been available to fill job openings shown by local employers."

Employment Up

Statistics from 102 employers in the Appleton and Neenah-Menasha area showed mid-November employment to be 27,331 as compared with 26,387 at the same time a year ago.

This represents an increase of 944 or slightly over 3.5 per cent. Leading in the rise were manufacturing establishments with paper and allied products printing and publishing firms also showed the most significant gains, the report said.

Metal and machine industries reflected smaller gains.

Loss of some employes in the construction trades, a post-holiday adjustment in the retail trade and further declines in textile manufacturing will cause an overall decline by mid-January. While a few industries expect gains during the same period, they will not completely take up the slack, the service reports.

Need Workers

Job openings totaled 657 in November, virtually unchanged from September, 1966 but 135 above November, 1965. The greatest number of employes being sought were for factory work. Forty-seven per cent of the job openings on file called for industrial help for both skilled and trainable workers.

Labor demands will remain high, the service report indicated. Relaxation of hiring specifications is not evident, however, for the immediate future.

Further consideration will probably be given to greater utilization of women workers.

60 Graduates Lead Sessions At New London

College Students Talk Informally About Higher Education

NEW LONDON — Sixty 1966 high school graduates took part in a "back to school afternoon" Tuesday at the senior high school.

The students, enrolled at various colleges, vocational and advanced training schools, met with high school junior and senior students to discuss campus life, advantages of their schools and problems which arise.

Students gathered in groups to discuss school life and renew acquaintances. The informal atmosphere allowed for open discussion, which may not be possible in a closely supervised or planned program, M. John Huppler, guidance director, said.

The program was based on the idea that students might be able to make a better planned transition from high school to college by learning first hand about problems that may arise, he said.

Huppler said the number of college students taking part was gratifying, although participation by juniors and seniors of the high school could have been better.

School Evaluation Started at Chilton

NCA Will Participate In Studies

CHILTON — The faculty and administration of the high school have launched an evaluation program in an effort to determine the strength and weaknesses of the system.

According to John Sandberg, principal, committees will conduct regular meetings to gather the information.

The project is in conjunction with a program of the North Central Association (NCA) of Colleges and Secondary Schools which requires every member school engage in a self-study program at least once every seven years.

Team Study

At the completion of the study, sometime next November, the NCA will send a team of educators to the school to aid in the evaluation and in making recommendations for improvement. A member of the State Department of Education will be represented on the team, according to Sandberg.

Norman Pautz will be chairman of the steering committee which will have the evaluation responsibility. The committee will coordinate the efforts of the faculty in studying the adequacy of the various subjects including library, guidance and other services, administration, activity program and program studies.

To assist as a guide for the evaluation, a document known as the "evaluative criteria", developed by the National Study of Secondary School Evaluation, will be employed. The document is used for measuring the effectiveness of the various programs.

Program Breakdown

The study program is broken down into several areas. The following staff members are assigned as chairmen of the committees;

Agriculture, James Eisner; art, Diane Wilson; business education, Michael Fitzpatrick; driver education, Ted Teschke; English, Robert Fritz, foreign language, Darlene Freimund; health education, Mrs. Geraldine Rybicke; home economics, Elaine Graichen;

Industrial arts, Marvin Hoffmann; mathematics, Charles Schuknecht; music, John Thome; physical education, James Skarda; science, Jeanette Eichhorst; social science, Mrs. Loretta Schomisch; philosophy and objectives, James Skarda; library and audiovisual, John Freidel; school staff and administration, Richard Kleine; school and community, John Freiburger; student activities, Paul Martorano; guidance, Herbert Soderlund, and school plant, Gus Schuler.

Local Analysis

Many school surveys rely heavily on recommendations from outside consultants. The NCA evaluation depends almost entirely on the local staff to analyze its own program and make recommendations for improvement, according to Sandberg. When the findings are completed the NCA team will evaluate the results with teachers and explore with them ways to improve the school, he said.

Each school evaluation is done in an attempt to determine how well the school is accomplishing its objectives. Students, teachers and parents will be involved at various stages in the evaluation, Sandberg said. The school will carry out a followup survey of its graduates, analyzing the community's resources, assessing the occupational intentions of seniors and determining the curricular areas that are representative of better practices& Sandberg said.

Operation Look Homeward

College Students Look at Careers In Paper Industry

Registration was down but serious interest definitely was up as approximately 150 Fox Cities college students learned about career opportunities in the area's paper industry Tuesday.

Although the number of collegians participating in Operation Look Homeward was almost 175 less than last year's initial program, officials expressed satisfaction, noting that many participants were seriously investigating job possibilities.

Presentations to the students tied in with the more serious attitude of this year's participants.

"College students want a challenge, not something handed to them on a platter," Ray Durkee, manager of special products for Kimberly-Clark Corp., told the young people.

Meet Interests

"Our industry and community meets many of these interests," he said. "This is your opportunity to go and find out about them."

Durkee said many area collegians do not realize that local companies provide many of the opportunities they are seeking. "Students are surprised that the paper industry offers so many diverse positions," he added.

Durkee said college graduates are looking for the chance for growth, a place to continue education, and the opportunity to provide service and live in an attractive community.

The Fox Cities offers many of these opportunities, he stated.

Local officials and students both expressed satisfaction with the program, which also included a talk by Dr. Arild Miller on the Institute of Paper Chemistry and its opportunities.

Mrs. Robert Ducklow, representing Fox River Paper Corp., noted, "This is less a social affair than last year. There is more serious interest."

Yvonne Buchinger, Appleton, a junior at Mt. Mary College, Milwaukee, agreed. "The approach used was geared especially to college students. The presentations were specific enough so that we could see the possibilities for the individual in the paper industry."

Another paper company official noted that the program provided the opportunity for students to orient courses for possible future jobs, so that their studies could help prepare them for a career. Frank Sanders, Appleton Coated Paper Co., said that the program also had resulted in some job applicants.

Tours were set up for interested students, including talks with department heads.

Jim Nettekoven, Sherwood, a sophomore at Wisconsin State University-Stevens Point, called the program an "education adventure. It's a good idea, because I'm interested in what this area is doing and in a possible job," he explained.

The most interesting part of the program for Cheryl Becker was the emphasis that persons now employed in the industry were not necessarily working in the areas in which they earned their majors. The Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh junior from Neenah reacted to the program like many of the students.

She arranged to go on several tours in local companies as part of the interest she has in possible working for the local paper industry.

Many of the participants have members of their families working in operations of or supporting the paper industry. Some have held summer or part-time jobs in paper plants.

But most came with their future after college looming large in their minds, looking for answers. Many of the questions were answered.

More will be answered in plant tours and interviews this week.

Alderman Offers Plan

Streamlining Sought for Appleton Government

Centralized purchasing looms as a prime candidate for being the first major undertaking toward streamlining Appleton governmental operations, a group of city officials have agreed informally.

The start of such a program, advocated in the past by various members of the city council, comes as an offshoot of a recent suggestion by Ald. Walter Kalata (2nd) that Appleton form its own "Kellett Committee."

The freshman alderman recently met with the council's finance committee and outlined his proposal for formation of an advisory committee on improved expenditure and management in municipal government.

Most Agree

While the majority of aldermen agreed with Kalata's idea, they frowned on having a group which would be organized along the framework of the state administration's Kellett Committee.

"The object of the studies of the committee would be to search and recommend improvements in management methods and practice in the administration of municipal affairs, leading to improved efficiency and economy both now, and in the future," Kalata said.

He said the objective of the study committee was reflected in concern from many areas of the communtiy "over the growing cost of local government, the ability of taxpayers to bear the ever-increasing costs."

One at a time

Ald. Alvin E. Tews (5th), finance committee chairman, said he agreed with Kalata there are many areas of government that could be studied. However, Tews felt "things should be taken one at a time" and suggested the first project to be tackled might be the start of a centralized purchasing program.

Officials Try To Streamline Government

"We have been talking about it for some time," Tews said, "And I think this might be a good group to make recommendations for setting up such a program."

Tews said he had in mind a blue ribbon committee which would consist of alderman, city officials and citizens, but cautioned the group should not become too large.

Ald. John MacDonald (7th) echoed Tews' position and suggested the council have a standing committee for special assignments, taking each project or problem at a time.

Relieve Jam

MacDonald, chairman of the council's personnel committee, admitted undertaking of studies of current matters log-jammed in the council might be a good thing for his group.

The personnel committee is due to bow out of existence April 1, 1967, with future personnel and labor negotiation matters to be in the hands of the city's personnel director.

MacDonald made the recommendation some time ago that the committee be disbanded after completing its work on 1967 labor contracts.

Many city governments have a committee on committees. In Milwaukee and some larger cities it is named the "operation and methods committee." These groups carry out special studies and assignments for the council, making recommendations at the conclusion of their deliberations

Kalata, Tews and MacDonald were in accord that a special committee should be created to work on special projects.

"Your proposal has both merit and ramifications," Tews told Kalata. The latter said he would rework his proposal and submit an amended version.

One study underway by a subcommittee of the board of public works is the possible revamping of the communications system at city hall where there are reportedly 58 telephones in use. The building does not have a switchboard.

Among the matters suggested by Kalata for study were:

—Establishment of direct liaison between the council and Outagamie County Board on budgetary matters and other financial considerations.

—Proposals recommending the combining of the fire and police departments into one department of public safety.

—Review of taxation and special assessment policies, and determination whether new areas of revenue exist.

—City-county health program recommendations.

—The entire makeup of city governmental structure with emphasis on organization and efficiency.

—Internal incentive, promotion and advancement of government employes

—Creation of a central motor and equipment pool.

Appleton Woman, 27, In Hospital After Self-Inflicted Injuries

Appleton police are continuing investigation into a possible attempted suicide Sunday night in which a 27 - year-old eastside woman first slashed her left wrist, then cut the right side of her throat and finally swallowed liquid bathroom cleaner.

The woman, whom police said is single, was taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital about 10 p.m. Saturday by the fire department rescue squad.

Police said she used a kitchen knife to cut a deep gash in her wrist about 1 p.m. Saturday. She used a razor blade on her throat later in the day, and shortly before calling the rescue squad, drank the bathroom cleaner.

Froehlich Plans Law To End Court Dilemma

Proposal Would Allow Calumet Cases in Appleton to be Tried by Outagamie Judge

Legislation is being drafted in Madison to permit the trying of traffic and other violators in the court of either county in which a municipality lies regardless of in which county the offense takes place.

A copy of the first draft was sent by Assemblyman Harold V. Froehlich, R-Appleton, today to Appleton city officials.

Under existing law, persons arrested for municipal ordinance or traffic violations in the portion of Appleton (Second Precinct, Ninth Ward) in Calumet County are arraigned at Chilton.

Officials Request Law

Froehlich's proposed law was requested by city officials and Judge Clarence Traeger of Dodge County, who is faced with a similar situation in his area.

"I have received the first draft of legislation that would authorize the prosecution of a city or village ordinance violation in the county court of any county in which the city or village lies, regardless of whether or not the violation occurred in that part of the city or village that lies in said county," Froehlich wrote Mayor George Buckley.

Froehlich said he was also sending copies of the proposal to the city's legal department and County Judge Gustave Keller for their comments and suggestions.

Law To Help Economy

"I believe this legislation, if enacted, will represent a step forward in efficiency and economy in the trying of these ordinance violations," Froehlich said.

The amendment to the law also would authorize prosecution of a traffic ordinance violation occurring on a road which coincides with a county boundary line in either county.

Served in Hortonville, Neenah

Longtime Area Doctor, Dr. Brunckhorst Dies

NEENAH — Dr. Frank O. Brunckhorst, 85, who started his career as a doctor driving a horse and buggy in Hortonville and spent 26 years as Neenah's city health officer, died this morning.

Dr. Frank O. Brunckhorst

It was ten years ago that the State Medical Society honored Dr. Brunckhorst for fifty years of service as a doctor.

Born in Kewaunee in 1881, he made his way first to the University of Wisconsin where he tried his hand at a commerce course. He soon changed his mind and went to St. Louis University medical school where he was graduated in 1906.

After internship and a further period of study in New York, he opened an office in Hortonville in 1910. He practiced among the people there until 1917 when the war took him to France with the medical corps.

For 22 months he wore an army uniform, much of the time with the 89th Division.

After the war he returned to Hortonville and stayed there until October, 1929, when he moved to Neenah. Eight years later he became Neenah's health officer

He was a member of the St. Elizabeth Hospital Staff and an honorary member of the Theda Clark Hospital staff

When he retired from the city health position in 1962, his successor said, "That man did the city a thoroughly valuable service for so many years, and so did his wife. We as citizens owe them both a debt of gratitude, that's all I can say."

Dr. Brunckhorst had been residing at the Grand Army Home at King.

Survivors include his wife, Amelia, and two sisters, Miss Lucy Brunckhorst, Milwaukee, and Mrs. Elizabeth Janda, Kewaunee, and a niece.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Friday at First Presbyterian Chapel in Neenah. Dr. John E. Bouquet will officiate. Burial will be in Wisconsin Veterans Memorial Cemetery at King.

A memorial has been established for the memorial fund of the First Presbyterian Church

Friends may call at the Kessler Funeral Home from 4 p.m. Thursday until noon Friday. Military rites will be conducted at graveside.

Would-be Robber Escapes Through Busy Restaurant

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Police searched late Tuesday for a man who fled from the scene of an attempted robbery into a crowded restaurant as a policeman fired two shots at him.

Bullets struck the front of a downtown restaurant in which 60 persons were dining. No one was injured.

Dr. Richard H. Lillie, 43, of suburban Fox Point had jumped from his car shouting to a patrolman that a man was in the car with a pistol. Police gave chase and found the pistol in a gutter. Authorities said the weapon was a toy gun.

The man eluded pursuers after through the restaurant.

Tax Sharing Study Badly Needed

It was no particular surprise that the Legislative Council refused to endorse for the purpose of preparing legislation the recommendations of a Council study committee on local government problems to allow municipalities certain forms of new taxing powers.

In the business of self-government, proposals for major change must be advocated over years to win attention for their purpose. Thus, the taxpayer probably must still be convinced that the proposed new forms of local taxation are necessary to meet mounting costs and that the only other alternative is to continue to boost the local property tax rates.

And the Council was right in accepting the view of State Sen. Robert Knowles that a total study of Wisconsin local government — in particular the existing formulas for shared taxes and state aids — is in order first before departing from the structure which now has Wisconsin ranking first in the nation in the field of state and local sharing of taxes In this regard, however, it is difficult to understand the all but automatic rejection of the Council study committee's proposal for examination of new highway aid formulas to distribute money to local government with some recognition of traffic loads rather than merely recognizing the number of miles of roads and streets in each type of municipality.

The Legislative Council would have won more believers for its call for a study of local government and tax sharing and state aid formulas if it had endorsed the plan for studying highway aid formulas. In the past, such suggestions have been brushed aside by the legislature, moves attributed to the rural influence in the Capitol. The Legislative Council's decision on rejecting the highway aids study casts doubt on the reason stated for not endorsing the idea of new forms of local taxation.

The local government study committee had proposed that local governments, at their own option, be authorized to levy a tax on motor vehicles, a use tax on hotel and motel bills, and a payroll tax of up to one-half of one per cent of gross income at the point income was earned.

The vehicle tax has been advanced before by the League of Wisconsin Municipalities as a source of new local revenue in comparisons which show Wisconsin automobile owners pay far less in taxes on their cars than is the case in most states. While it may not be stated in the recommendations, the plan also would be to win recognition of the vehicle tax as a local source of revenue before the state was forced to turn to it for its purposes in future years.

The payroll tax, in addition to being a new source of revenue, would attack the factor of suburban residents now supporting their central city by taxing gross income at its source.

The new taxes would have to overcome some telling arguments in addition to the one raised in the Legislative Council that authorization for optional new local taxes would be a departure from an accepted structure of state and local tax sharing. A payroll tax would conflict with the Wisconsin tradition of taxing income on a progressive rather than flat schedule. And while the payroll tax would reach suburban residents, the addition of this tax and a vehicle tax to the tax load of larger cities contrasted to the lack of need for the new taxes in other municipalities, including suburbs, would not improve the ratio of tax loads for hard-pressed cities seeking industrial expansion.

A revision of existing tax sharing and state aid formulas, thus, appears to offer the best results. And the study must come soon and be a complete one including the worrisome point that mere revision of formulas may not offer enough money to make much difference and that the state may have to come up with new forms of local taxation similar to those rejected by the Legislative Council or to increase state taxes with sizeable help to urban municipalities in mind.

Rep. Powell's Affairs

The House investigation into the financial affairs of Congressman Adam Clayton Powell's education committee is not only long overdue; its findings must make a lot of Americans wonder how extensive are the misuses of privilege. Why did the House wait so long to question what must have been some obvious discrepancies in the expenditures of Mr. Powell's committee?

The investigation reveals that unauthorized personnel were using air transport cards which were supposed to be only used by those actively on business for the committee. Presumably there were other deviations on expenses, all paid for by the American taxpayer. It is strongly suspected that Congressman Powell kept people on his payroll who either were working for him personally or not working at all.

But it must be assumed that the house investigation finally came about because of Congressman Powell's other problems. Because of his refusal to pay slander damages levelled against him several years ago, he has simply kept out of New York except when Congress was in session when he was immune from arrest on a civil charge or on Sunday when a subpoena could not be served. Now that criminal charges against him have been upheld, he simply stays on an island in the Caribbean. Without such a flagrant flaunting of the courts, would the House have done any investigating?

We have felt for some time that Congressman Powell was a disgrace to the House of Representatives. His removal, however, is controversial because he was duly elected and there is some feeling that if voters want that sort of man to represent them, they should have him. But his misuse of public funds is the business of other members of the House of Representatives because they should be accounting to the American taxpayer for every penny. The looseness of the system has become all too apparent in the investigation.

It may well be that there should be trust among members of Congress and the assumption that every member is honest. But beyond that sort of respect and camaraderie, Congressmen owe to their constituents the trust of public funds. We cannot believe that there is a widespread misuse of Congressional privilege. But it appears all too often that certain practices — such as lame duck trips to all parts of the world — are a sort of mutual agreement among Congressmen and in reality constitute almost a fraud upon the public.

There were rumors that Bobby Baker's activities involved some members of the government including Congressmen in less than savory deals. The investigation of Congressman Powell's committee is proof that Congress should police itself far better than it has in the past.

When Is a League Not a League?

Decisions of the Arab League Defense Council are supposed to be binding upon all members. But the wild disarray of opinion among the Arab countries of the Middle East means that decisions are virtually interpreted differently in every country.

Twelve member nations passed what was supposed to be a secret resolution a few weeks ago saying that Jordan would permit troops from Iraq and Saudi Arabia to enter Jordan to help protect that country against Israel. But since the resolution was passed Jordanian officials have explained that there are some restrictions to the permission It can't happen unless Israel wages all-out war against Jordan and only if the United Nations troops still patrolling the Gaza strip are withdrawn and replaced by Egyptians.

From Cairo there have come howls of rage or, as Jordan's besieged King Hussein put it, "wild screams across the desert." Egypt claims that the agreement was to have been implemented within two months, war or no war Also Jordan's restriction that no members of the Palestine Liberation Army be included has upset Egypt which would like to see such infiltration as a major move in deposing King Hussein and replacing him with someone who pays homage to Gamal Nasser.

Egypt is also sensitive to the Jordanian suggestion that Egypt relied on the United Nations to protect one of its flanks. In reality this is exactly what Egypt is doing so that its own troops can be down in Yemen on a stand-off basis with troops from Saudi Arabia which back the other side in the Yemen civil war. When the U.N. troops first started their patrol in the Gaza strip they actually prevented the Israelis from overrunning Egypt which had started a war it had no ability to fight.

The latest conflict among the Arab nations came after the Israel raid on the Jordanian village of Es Samu. It is not yet clear whether the raid was a tactical mistake since King Hussein has been a moderate in his approach to the existence of Israel while the attack might lead to his downfall and replacement by a radical. On the other hand Israel made it clear that it will not eternally tolerate the continued raids from Arabs who act without stated authorization of their governments but obviously with the knowledge that they will not be penalized.

Meanwhile the left wing Syrian government, in cutting off the oil pipeline from Iraq to the Mediterranean which runs through its territory, has added another chapter to the hatred among Arabs. The action could succeed in bringing an extremist government to Iraq, unfriendly to the West and to King Hussein as well. This is of concern to the more conservative government of Saudi Arabia.

Jordan well may need those extra troops but to protect itself from its fellow Arabs rather than the Israelis.

Kraft Writes

State Department Runs Like Fudge Factory; It's Problem for LBJ

BY JOSEPH KRAFT

WASHINGTON — The President's best hope of early recovery from this winter of discontent lies in a series of job appointments that he will be making in the next weeks and months.

Of these, one of the most important, tricky and little understood, will come at the end of next month when William Crockett is due to step down as Deputy Under Secretary of State for Administration.

For that post is central not only to the running of the State Department, but to the effective management of foreign policy. And already various parties are moving apace to advance candidates fit chiefly to perpetuate the present, dismal conditions.

Like many strategic government posts, the Crockett job looks to be a matter of nuts and bolts. The Deputy Under Secretary for Administration is responsible chiefly for pushing State's budget through the department and the Congress, and for the selection, assignment, promotion and training of personnel.

But the budget happens to be the principal connection between the State Department and the Congress. The way the Congress makes itself felt in any important encounter is by cutting or withholding funds.

NEEDS ABLE MEN

Personnel happens to be a principal link between the department and the White House. For a President must not only define policies, but have men able to grasp and carry them out.

In practice, moreover, the secretary and under secretary happen almost always to be preoccupied with day-to-day business — putting out fires. That leaves the office of under secretary as the principal place in the State Department for the matching of foreign policy against resources of money and people.

Mr. Crockett, a former bank official and administrative officer in the department, has tried to handle the job by doing small favors for all interested parties. He has catered to the congressional interest by giving ground on internal security issues; and by arranging junkets for Congressman John Rooney of New York, chairman of the subcommittee which handles State's appropriations, and Congressman Wayne Hays, chairman of the subcommittee which handles State's organization.

He has catered to the interest of the professional foreign service by creating prestigious make-work jobs for former ambassadors awaiting reassignment. He has catered to the non-foreign service interest by finding good posts abroad for able men who are not career diplomats.

WORK HAS LOST COHESION

By catering to all these interests, he has satisfied Secretary of State Rusk's interest in not rocking the boat. But, in the process, the work of the State Department has lost all cohesion.

Thus, there is only the dimmest relationship between the ambassadors sent to Eastern Europe, and the President's policy of building bridges; still less between that policy and the kind of concessions the repartment regularly makes to the Congress.

The department has become, to repeat a phrase I coined several months ago, a fudge factory. And because it fudges decisions, its influence with other agencies and departments in foreign affairs matters has probably never been less.

In the maneuvering to fill the Crockett job, the various interests have all advanced favorite candidates. Some are able men, in the way the Mr. Crockett has been able. But they only promise more of the fudge factory.

The President's interest is to find a different kind of man entirely. He needs someone versed in State and Congressional business, but, above all things, endowed with the kind of intellectual force required to establish a direct and explicit connection between foreign policy and what the American government actually does abroad.

Looking Backward

Report on City's Public Schools

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Dec. 27, 1866.

Just now is vacation in the city schools.

City Superintendent J. W. Fuller has handed us for publication a little statement in regard to the teachers for the coming term.

The teachers remain as last term, except as under:

First Ward: Miss Damon, teacher, is married to Mr. Heath, director of the same school district, and Miss Richardson, from Omro, takes her place in the school.

Third Ward: Miss C. Bailey is appointed to the Grammar Department. She is an experienced teacher from Ohio.

The Fall term, of 17 weeks, closed its session Friday, Dec. 14, and has been one of unusual harmony in all the schools. The whole number of scholars attending, not including the Junior Department of the First Ward, is 451.

The percentage of attendance stands at 80 and the number of visitors during the term, 379.

These figures show an advance over former terms, both in constant attendance of pupils and in the interest manifested by visitors to the school-rooms.

The Winter term will begin on Monday, Jan. 7th, and continues for 12 weeks.

25 WEARS AGO
Wednesday, Dec. 24, 1941.

Britain's Prime Minister Winston Churchill was in Washington that Christmas Eve, conferring with President Franklin Delano Roosevelt on a common war program.

Lamplighters for the Bellaire Court Christmas program that year were Dr. Edward J. Zeiss, N. J. Wilmot, Dr. Ralph Landis, Charles Carson Green, Dr. Stephan Konz, R. M. Radsch, Homer Gebhardt, I. R. Valentine and C. W. Jerger.

Pvt. Orville W. Schultz, route 1, Neenah, was assigned as an instructor in radio at Scott Field. The Neenah man enlisted in the U.S. Army Air Corps the previous March.

10 YEARS AGO
Wednesday, Dec. 26, 1956.

Traffic deaths zoomed to the highest total for any holiday period in American history for the long Christmas weekend — 703 highway fatalities — 51 deaths in fires — 122 deaths in other accidents for a total of 876. The traffic toll of 609 was recorded for 1954.

Winners of the sophomore and freshman speech contests at Kaukauna High School included Donna Schaefer, Patricia McGrath and Diane O'Dell in the second-year class; Dwight Bastian, Diane Wheeler and Karen Grebe in the first-year class.

Directors that year of the Waupaca-Waushara Dairy Herd Improvement Association included Ross De Goiler and E. W. Beaudit, both of Pine River; Allen L. Ireton, Weyauwega; Elmer J. Baerenwald, Clintonville, and Irvin Fietzer, Manawa.

Charlotte Mentink was the narrator and four Luther Leaguers were in the cast for a holiday play at St. Paul Lutheran Church, Appleton. Cast members were Larry Rymer, Ronald Fuss, Jack Ankerson and Donald Kuchenbecker.

Churches Can Order Church Spires That Soar in Hours

GREENSBURG, Pa. (AP) — In the past, a town might have to wait weeks or even years for a new spire to be put atop its church.

Today, new engineering techniques and prefabricated metals help hold spire installation time down to just a few hours.

One company puts a spire together at its factory, then disassembles it for shipment to the site. There a crew supervises assembly and installation. Even a 50-foot Gothic spire goes up in under three hours.

Wisconsin Report

Growth of OSU Is Example of State's Education Leadership

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — About 30 years ago a budding student journalist at the University of Wisconsin was invited to attend the junior prom at what was then Oshkosh State College. If he gave the appearance of mild condescension, it was probably occasioned by the contrast between what appeared then to be the huge size and enrollment of the institution at Madison and the modest dimensions of the college. There were perhaps 600 students enrolled at Oshkosh, and as memory recalls, virtually all of them attended the smart social affair.

Wyngaard

The other day the matured reporter sat in a state capitol hearing room and suddenly recalled the dance in the small auditorium. He was listening to the dramatic story of growth in what is now the seventh largest state university system in the country. It has nine schools that are doubling their enrollments at four year intervals, led by Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh which will very soon have a student population equal to that of the University at Madison in the 1930s.

Is there any more convincing proof of the magnificent support the residents of Wisconsin have given to the idea of fullest educational opportunities for their young people? The story of the University of Wisconsin's distinction among the leading schools of the country is well known. But so swift has been the transformation of the once obscure "normal schools" that its meaning and impact are not yet fully realized

INCREDIBLE GROWTH

Perhaps one reason is that upon examination of the growth figures, the story is so breathtaking in its scope.

The nine schools now have the enormous total of 44,000 students, expect to enroll at least 8,000 beyond that total next fall, and an additional 6,500 in the following year. Except for the decision of the last legislature to authorize new University of Wisconsin branch campuses in northeastern and southeastern Wisconsin, the state university system almost surely would have overtaken the University of Wisconsin in numbers of students during the next few years. It may yet do so, for statisticians confidently predict that during the next 15 years the student enrollment will reach 87,000. That will include, they predict, about 17,000 at Oshkosh, or nearly 30 times the enrollment in the middle 1930s

The school payrolls list 4,500 faculty members and employes, a plant worth a quarter of a billion dollars which is constantly being expanded (20 new residence halls are being built for occupancy next fall) and regularly enriching curricula. They are rapidly expanding into graduate studies fields with the benevolent backing of their former rivals at Madison who also realize that their enrollment bulge will continue indefinitely.

WILLING TO SPEND

The meaning of the story in tax terms is not always understood. Occasionally young student spokesmen will turn up at the Capitol to preach their little sermons about the need for more generous budgeting.

They need not worry. Instead, they should compare the quality and scope of their opportunities — and the public costs of those opportunities — with the modest programs of their parents' times. The State Division of Economic Development in a current bulletin reports that the per capita cost of higher education in tax terms in Wisconsin — per resident of the state, not per student — has multiplied about 12 times since 1942 and has nearly doubled in the last four years. It notes that the per capita cost in Wisconsin is comparatively high among the states and is far higher than the tax investment per capita in that rich and big neighbor, the state of Illinois.

Perhaps more provocative is the discovery of the agency that there is a relationship between taxation per capita and college student migration. Illinois, for example, evidently cannot accommodate the higher education needs of its young people. It sends thousands of them annually into Wisconsin public institutions. Illinois has comparatively lower tax liability, in part because of that circumstance. Other states are also taking advantage of the generous Wisconsin public university opportunities.

Assassination Debate Tribute to Democracy

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

The hue and cry about the Warren Report on President Kennedy's assassination are good and healthful indications that we are not yet so brainwashed by "authority" that we tamely accept whatever we are told to believe. Wherever the truth lies, the investigation should be reopened, widened, deepened, and pursued relentlessly to its end.

Harris

But, disturbing as the recent questioning may be, one salient fact should not be lost sight of — and that is the continuing strength of a legitimate and democratic government, as opposed to a totalitarian one. We suddenly and shockingly lost a President; we did not lose a Presidency.

One of the apparent strengths of a dictatorship, whether of left or of right, is its ability to "get things done" fast, without the balking and bickering of a democratic government. I think we have been over-impressed with this strength, and fail to see the comparable (and more than compensating) strength in our form of government.

When Kennedy died, there was no doubt who became President; the succession was automatic and unanimously accepted by all the people. In the midst of our horror, there was still a sense of continuity and stability; the lines of authority were clear and unquestioned.

And this is precisely the basic, and fatal, flaw in any totalitarian government, from Hitler to Stalin to Mao to Franco to Castro. They do not really provide for a legitimate succession of authority. And this is the meaning of Masaryk's shrewd comment, when he was the first President of Czechoslovakia: "Dictators always look good until the last 15 minutes."

It is in the last quarter-hour that we can see the hollowness of their power. The jackals gather about the corpse and begin to wrangle over possession; things fall apart, as Yeats said, the center cannot hold. For there is nothing to hold a country together when a dictator dies or is killed.

The weaknesses of democracy are quite evident on the surface — delay, compromise, too little done too late, inability to act decisively in a crisis. But these are a small price to pay for the hidden strength, which no totalitarian government possesses: a smooth and swift succession of legitimate authority from one hand to another.

Chine today is torn with internal dissention; Russia is smoldering in the uneasy grip of a committee; no one knows who will "represent" — or misrepresent — those countries tomorrow; least of all, the leaders themselves. Our ballots, rather than our bullets, remain our greatest "secret weapon."

Dictatorship Secure

Castro Starts Ninth Year With Firm Control of 'Proletariat Masses'

By ISAAC M. FLORES

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro begins his ninth year in power more firmly in command of this island nation than ever before.

His personal popularity may have dipped a bit since Jan 1 1959, when the bearded mountain rebel emerged victorious over dictator Fulgencio Batista, but he has more than compensated for it with an iron-grip control over what he calls the "proletariat masses."

Barring any violent incident, political observers here see no alternative to Castro communism in this restless Caribbean island's immediate future. They see little basis for persistent speculation outside the country that the 40-year-old "maximum leader's" regime is teetering on the edge of disaster.

There appears to be little chance for internal subversion. Attack from the outside looks unfeasible in this age of push-button global warfare.

Better Days

And, helping to solidify Castro's position, the country's economy seems on the verge of better days despite a commercial shipping blockade, low sugar prices and the creeping pace of industrialization.

While there is discontent with the regime, no organized militant resistance against it is evident.

Castro's security system maintains a vise-like control over the country's eight million inhabitants. It includes nearly two million neighborhood informants, hundreds of thousands of militia men and women, young Communist and Communist party members, militant women's groups, state employes, students, secret police and the toughest military organization in Latin America.

This apparatus is reason enough for Castro Communism's expected long life here, but there are others.

Slow Movement

Perhaps the key lies in the slow but significant forward movement of the economy.

Cuba's chaotic status over the past eight years has given Castro foes reason to believe that it would be the cause of his downfall. Though still alive, those expectations are fading with the regime's tottery climb out of the economic gutter.

Much of the credit is due to the huge injections of money, equipment and technical aid from the Soviet Union. But Castro's determination can't be discounted. His powers of persuasion are the country's main driving force.

Any mention of Cuba's economic gains, however, has to be tempered with qualifications about the daily lives of its people. Economic improvement in some cases has come at the expense of the masses.

Faces Paradox

The average Cuban faces a paradoxical situation. He is told—with some basis—that the fishing industry is booming, that cattle raising is now a major industry, that agricultural production is climbing and that more coffee, tobacco and fruits are being grown than ever before. But he sees little improvement in his lot.

He has no more to eat than he had several years ago; in some cases, he has less. Shoes, clothing, consumer items and household goods are rationed, or expensive and of poor quality when available.

The housing problem continues to worsen.

Most of the economic gains go right back into expansion efforts in industry and agriculture. Increases in agricultural and livestock production are exported for needed foreign currency.

The Castro administration's major advances have been in mass public education, agrarian reform and extension of medical care.

Some Better Off

The main beneficiaries of the revolution have been the backwoods campesinos and poor people in the interior of the country. In many instances they have better housing, roads, education and medical treatment than ever before.

These people constitute the backbone of the prime minister's support.

Castro can look toward the new year with possibly a bit more confidence than at any of the previous seven anniversaries of his revolution.

Cuba is entrenched in the Communist family of nations, but it is achieving a certain measure of respect and recognition from non-Communist countries. Castro is acquiring more trading partners, attracting more international conferences to Havana and exercising more of a voice in international gatherings himself, through his spokesmen.

In short, this new Communist nation—the first to implement Marxism-Leninism in the Latin manner—is assuming what it considers to be its rightful place in international society. And it is doing so on its own terms.

Neenah Firm Fined $515 for Overload; Charge Uncontested

Agents for Courtney Plummer, Inc., Neenah, paid $515.60 in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 Tuesday on an axle overload charge brought by state officials.

The complaint, to which the Neenah's firm's agents pleaded guilty, stated that a truck, stopped on U. S. 10 in the town of Grand Chute Dec. 14, was 6,580 pounds overweight. Judge Gustave J. Keller assessed a $50 fine, a $460 poundage assessment, and $5 in court costs.

Reinhardt A. Radies, 71, route 1, Marion, also named in a complaint by state officials, paid $72.70 Tuesday after he pleaded guilty to an axle overload charge. Included in the total assessment was a $50 fine.

Radies, whose truck was stopped Dec. 12 on U. S. 10 in the Town of Grand Chute, was charged with carrying a 1,770 pound overload.

Steam Brings Firemen to Appleton Home

Steam emitting from a broken hot water pipe brought Appleton firemen to the home of Mrs. Warren Sager, 515 W. Parkway Blvd., at 9:03 a.m. Tuesday.

Firemen said the pipe from the hot water heater began leaking, causing the basement to fill with steam.

Firemen went to Appleton High School-West on N. Badger Avenue at 6:39 a.m. Monday when an alarm was sounded. Firemen found that the alarm was triggered following an accident in which a car broke off a utility pole on N. Bennett Street several hours earlier.

At 4:37 p.m. Monday, firemen were called to the Duane Wheaton home, 1818 W. Summer St., when a filter lying against a furnace motor caused the house to fill with fumes.

One truck was sent to the Robert Boisen home, 1000 E. Kay St., at 7 p.m. Christmas Day when a gas odor was reported. Firemen said the smell was coming from a plugged basement sewer.

Firemen were called to the John Fuhrman home, 942 E. Kay St., at 7:27 a.m. Christmas Day, when grease from a cooking goose spilled over in an oven and began burning. There was a small amount of smoke damage.

Today in History

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, December 28, the 362nd day of 1966. There are three days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1908, the Sicilian city of Messina was totally destroyed by an earthquake. About 84,000 persons lost their lives.

On this date:

In 1836, Spain recognized the independence of Mexico.

In 1846, the State of Iowa was admitted to the Union.

In 1856, Woodrow Wilson, the 28th U.S. president, was born.

In 1917, the government took possession and assumed control of the nation's railroads at noon by proclamation of President Woodrow Wilson.

Ten years ago—The State Department announced its decision to revoke the passports of three American journalists for entering Communist China in defiance of a State Department ban on travel in Red China. The three were William Worthy of the Baltimore Afro - American, and Edmund Stevens and Philip Harrington of Look magazine.

Five years ago—The newly independent country of Kuwait informed the U N Security Council that Iraq was threatening Kuwait. This, one day after British naval reinforcements were rushed to the Persian Gulf because of British fears that Iraq might try to forcibly take over Kuwait.

One year ago—The Communist Viet Cong in South Viet Nam called for a four-day cease-fire in January in observance of the Oriental new year. The West, meanwhile, looked anxiously to Hanoi for signs that the Communist North Vietnamese were ready to talk peace in an effort to end the Vietnamese war.

Alabama Gets Two Governors For One Price

Mrs. Wallace Will Insist on Title for Retiring Husband

By REX THOMAS

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—In just 19 days, the State of Alabama will have two governors for the price of one — give or take a dollar.

Gov.-elect Lurleen Wallace insists on it. On Jan. 16, she succeeds husband George in the $25,000-a-year job as the state's chief executive.

But from then on, he'll be at her right hand, her No. 1 adviser, a promise she made to the voters in her whirlwind campaigning.

"I'm going to be at the capitol fulltime," Mrs. Wallace said, relaxing behind a desk piled high with mail from well-wishers. "I'm going to be active, but the governor (that's the way she expects her husband to be addressed when he leaves office) will be there with me. We'll be there together."

Gov.-Elect Wallace

Power of Women

So far there's no provision for payment of a gubernatorial adviser, but she has half-jokingly called him "a dollar-a-year man," and if the state doesn't pay it, perhaps she will.

A motto behind her desk, given to her by a friend, proclaims the power of womanhood in these words:

"A woman may be small of frame,
"With tiny feet that patter
"But when she puts one small foot down,
"Her shoe size doesn't matter."

But the motto has no special significance, nor does the gilded statue of the ancient Egyptian Queen Nefertiti which decorators put in her busy downtown office.

A 40-year-old mother of four, Mrs. Wallace has never been a stickler for formality or protocol. But she is dealing with the fact that she will be working with a former governor, and he is her husband. That presents some problems.

Proper Address

How do you address her?

"It is the Honorable Gov. Lurleen B. Wallace, if you want to be real strict and stick to protocol," the governor-elect volunteered. "During my administration, however, everything official will be Lurleen B. Wallace."

If you want to get her dander up, try referring to them as "Gov. and Mr. George Wallace."

"As long as they live, every other ex-governor in Alabama carries the title of 'governor' as a courtesy," Mrs. Wallace said firmly. "I will insist on Gov. Wallace not being called 'mister'."

On their calling cards, it will be "Gov. Lurleen B. Wallace", and "Gov. George C. Wallace." And on the napkins used for formal dinners at the gleaming white antebellum governor's mansion, it will be "Gov. Lurleen B. Wallace, 1967-71" and below that, "Gov. George C. Wallace, 1963-67."

Three of the Wallaces' children live at the mansion — Peggy, 17; George Jr., 15, and Lee, 5 — but there won't be any baby-sitter problem. Mrs. Wallace's mother, Mrs. Henry Burns, lives in Montgomery and is available to look after the children anytime she's needed.

trigger battles with Assembly Republican leaders who are extremely reluctant to continue the recent trend of biennial tax boosts

The spending requests from which the 1967-69 general state budget will be shaped now total $1,194,000,000.

This is an increase of nearly $310 million over the current two-year state budget.

Rare is the jump in revenue that would match that pace.

The rise in revenue from the 1963-65 biennium to the present 1965-67 spending period was forecast originally at a paltry $24 million before the last Legislature increased taxes

Expected Advance

Even under the rebuilt tax structure for this biennium, the most recent summary that the Knowles administration made public showed an anticipated advance in revenue of only $10 million between the first fiscal year and the second.

Because ambitions in education and state services tend always to outrun revenue, Wisconsin raised its taxes in the 1959, 1961, 1963, and 1965 legislatures. The first Knowles administration saw increases in the income tax corporation tax, cigarette tax and gasoline tax.

During his runaway re-election campaign, Knowles met all questions on the possibility of another tax increase with a ready reply that a soaring economy might enable the state to stay within its next budget.

He repeated those hopes Nov. 15 at his first formal news conference after the election.

That was before the governor got the revenue estimates.

Few Tidings

They were delivered about 10 days before Christmas by Tax Commissioner James Morgan. There are strong - indications - they sparked few tidings of joy.

The revenue estimate, reduced to simplest terms, is purely a guess about how the economy will behave the next two or three years and how much money the rising incomes will yield for the state treasury.

It is reached by guessing what the national economy will do, translating this into national income, applying a percentage to extract an estimate of income in Wisconsin, and calculating what this will mean in terms of tax revenue.

The staggering puzzler is the national economy.

Could Mean Disaster

Will the war in Vietnam continue? Will President Johnson call for a national tax increase. Will inflation be checked by Johnson administration attempts to tighten its belt?

In one of the ironies of economics, peace could mean political disaster for Knowles.

For instance, should the war in Vietnam suddenly stop, the cutback in military spending would have what Morgan calls "a jarring effect" on the economy.

Morgan's guess is that the war will continue.

Even so, the estimates from universities and banks and stock brokers on how the economy will behave in 1967 are falling below the rate of growth the last two years.

The gross national product—the main index of the economy—rose 8.7 per cent in 1965 and 7.6 per cent this year.

Optimistic Estimate

The most optimistic estimate for 1967 comes from a former economics adviser to President Kennedy and is 7.7 per cent. The lowest comes from a national brokerage firm and is 5.5 per cent.

The figure in the middle is a growth rate of 6.8 per cent.

What would this mean in terms of Wisconsin taxes?

To start with, a one per cent increase in earnings means about a 1.3 per cent jump in state revenue because of the escalating nature of the Wisconsin income tax brackets.

Given that figure plus the $844 million revenue now forecast publicly for the current spending span—a figure that, by the way, would be $350 million below the spending requests for the next two years — a little rough arithmetic would come up with these results:

At best, the revenue estimate could tower to about $1,060,000,000. At worst, it would stop at about $950 million or less.

Rosy Tinges

In between, using the middle-range guesses and applying a couple of rosy tinges around the edges of the arithmetic, the revenue estimate would come out to about $1,010,000,000.

This, allowing for fattened surplus left over in the treasury at the end of this biennium, would require cutting proposed spending by about $165 million to balance the budget.

The rough arithmetic is necessary since official revenue estimates rank as a secret of the state.

The glass - wall approach to government ends right here with the curtains drawn tight around the Knowles fish bowl. Morgan says the revenue figures will stay secret until Knowles offers his budget to the 1967 Legislature which convenes Jan. 11.

Search-Destroy Mission Kills 89 Viet Cong

the enemy dead had risen to 89, with two prisoners taken and 46 weapons seized. Vietnamese casualties were termed "very light."

The spokesman said a government infantry battalion reported contact this afternoon with a Viet Cong force of unknown size. The outcome of the contact was not known at last reports.

Largest Operation

U.S. headquarters listed only small, scattered skirmishes.

In the air war, long-range B52 bombers made two raids on targets in South Vietnam today. One formation of the heavy bombers struck at a Communist base camp and suspected troop concentration 15 miles west-northwest of the northern city of Hue. Another wave hammered an enemy supply and training area 24 miles southwest of the central coastal city of Tuy Hoa.

U.S. air strikes against North Vietnam were hampered again Tuesday by bad weather, U.S. spokesman said, and American jet pilots flew only 54 strike missions, or about 150 individual sorties

Hit at Highways

Most of the strikes hit at highways in the Dien Bien Phu area, in the western part of North Vietnam, and at storage areas and rail yards in the southern section of the country, the spokesman said.

Twelve U.S. Army advisers made the big parachute jump in the delta with the Vietnamese paratroopers. Brig. Gen William G. Moore Jr., 46, of Waco, Tex., was in charge of the airlift and flew in the lead C130 Hercules. Also flying during the operation was Lt Gen William W. Momyer, commander of the U.S. 7th Air Force.

ton's North Station at 12:01 a.m. bound for Rockport, Mass.

Police said the force of the collision carried the train and truck 100 feet down the tracks. The truck ruptured, spilling most of its 7,000 gallons of stove oil in a fiery wave.

The train tilted off the tracks and the truck overturned.

Police said the engineer of the train, Thomas Bagley, was killed.

A passenger, Martin F. Marnik, 18, of Lynn said the engineer came into the car just before the crash "and he yelled, 'Lean forward! We're going to hit!' And then I was thrown forward."

Marnik said he followed a man out of the train through the rear platform after the collision.

Fire Lt. Francis Scott said the flames shot 75 feet into the air and thick black smoke engulfed the train and truck. "All I could hear was people screaming," he said. "We had to take them out through a mist."

Effort Fails to Return Foster Children to State Negro Pair

MADISON (AP)—A Waunakee delegation reported no success in its efforts Tuesday to get state welfare officials to return three foster children to the only Negro family in the Dane County farm village.

Mrs. Clifford Dishno, a school teacher, said the couple — Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Boles Sr. — might have to take the appeal to court.

Welfare officials had taken the Negro children from the couple after expressing concern about the health of Mrs. Boles who underwent heart surgery earlier this year. More than 100 Waunakee residents signed petitions in protest.

The delegation, including Dane County Supervisor Roman Ripp, talked for 90 minutes with Frank Newgent, director of the State Welfare Department's Division of Children and Youth.

Assemblyman David O'Malley, D-Waunakee, said after the session that welfare officials were vague about reasons for removing the youngsters, and that there was no sign the action would be reversed.

The three girls range in age from 7 to 16. The oldest girl was sent to live with the family of Boles' son.

A 9-year-old girl is to be placed with another foster family, and the youngest is to go to the Wisconsin Child Center at Sparta.

"Whenever a family serves as a boarding home," the Welfare Department said in a reply to Waunakee protests, "we have a clear understanding with the family that the child may not remain permanently."

Police Chief Charged With Tipsy Driving

MADISON (AP) — The police chief of nearby De Forest pleaded innocent Tuesday to a charge of driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

Trial was scheduled for Feb. 20 by Dane County Traffic Court for Sylvester J. Dublin, 48.

Vietnam War Again at Top Of News Pages

South Vietnam within six months after North Vietnam withdrew its forces.

7. There were race riots in several cities this year, none as destructive as last year's riots in the Watts section of Los Angeles.

There was another incident in Watts in March, with two killed and 25 injured. During July's heat wave, there was rioting when policemen tried to turn off fire hydrants in Chicago. After three days, with two dead, six policemen shot, and 300 arrested, 3,000 national guardsmen were called in to restore order.

Cleveland Fires

Cleveland, on July 21, had 1,000 national guardsmen patrolling a Negro area but 85 fires started anyway, from fire bombs.

8. The greatest peacetime boom in the nation's history overheated in 1966 and some of its benefits were lost in the steam of inflation.

Everybody asked too much of the economy. Business raced to build new factories; labor asked for higher wages; the federal government spent heavily for social welfare and the war in Vietnam.

The economy couldn't meet the demands. There wasn't enough highly skilled labor to do everything that was wanted, so labor could command a greater price for its services, and did. This put pressure on prices. The pressure on prices forced workers to demand higher wages. Food prices rose and so did housewives' anger.

The stock market spent the year in descent. If inflation was going to eat into profits, traders reasoned, stocks weren't as good a buy as they had been.

9. Red China deepened its split with Russia: Mao Tse-tung, Communist Party chairman, was ailing; the teen-age Red Guard roamed the streets inveighing against the old order. But the big news in 1966 was Red China's swift movement into the nuclear age.

On May 9 China announced it had successfully detonated a device containing thermonuclear material. At first the U.S. State Department estimated it was 130 kilotons of yield, later decided it was at least in the 200-kilton range, equivalent to 200,000 tons of TNT.

10. In a 5 to 4 decision June 13, the Supreme Court handed down a ruling which makes far-ranging changes in the interrogation of suspects by police. The suspect must be told he has a right to have a lawyer present throughout interrogation.

Also, no confession may be used in court unless the defendant had been clearly notified of his rights. The minority opinion expressed fear the decision will hamper the police in handling criminals.

The State Highway Department cautioned drivers in Wisconsin to be mindful that driving conditions are bad and probably will become worse as the storm gains momentum. Visibility was reduced by blowing and drifting snow to 100 to 200 feet in some places in central Wisconsin.

The storm is not isolated to Wisconsin. It dumped heavy snow in the central Plains today as well. Highway travel was disrupted in parts of the Midwest.

Farm Worker, 20, Accused in Gun Incident at Home

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A young farm worker was accused of having terrorized a South Milwaukee mother and three of her children Tuesday by holding them at gunpoint and firing a shot past the woman.

Bruce Waters, 20, who police said had been working for two weeks at a Waukesha County farm, was charged with endangering safety through conduct regardless of life.

Waters was hospitalized in satisfactory condition after Hastings arrived at the home and struggled with him.

Mrs. Hastings said a shot was fired, and that Waters threatened her husband when he arrived home from shopping.

Mental Health Quacks One of Worst Rackets

BY SYLVIA PORTER
Third in a Series

Q.: Glutanic acid has been promoted as a chemical that will increase intelligence. Would it help a retarded child?

A.: No. Carefully conducted and controlled experiments have proved that there is no improvement in mental functions following glutamic acid treatment.

Sylvia Porter

Q.: What is the "U Series" treatment and will it help a mongoloid child?

A.: The "U Series" is a drug treatment, consisting of approximately 50 medications. Results of a controlled study of the "U Series" drugs as treatment for mongoloid children failed to show any value from them.

These are sample questions and answers in a new compilation of "Facts on Quacks" to be published by the American Medical Association early next month. The booklet, which covers the range of health quackery from phony cancer "cures" to "cosmetic chicanery," contains a surprising number of warnings against — and examples of — today's flourishing mental health quack.

Millions for 'Cures'

Although no statistics have been collected, the evidence is that Americans now are pouring out huge sums of money for worthless mail-order alcoholism "cures." dangerous self-hyposis schemes, phony treatments for mental retardation — and consultations with untrained, unqualified "marriage counselors."

Along with today's nationwide interest in mental health—and tremendous advances in recent years in the treatment of mental illness — have come a whole new breed of charlatans and assorted "experts" in this complex field.

"In some states," declares Mrs. Winthrop Rockefeller, president of the National Association for Mental Health, "nothing more is required for entering the marriage counseling profession than a shingle to hang on the front door." As a result, free-lance marriage counselors "are in full operation in most urban areas of the nation." Clearly, patronizing unqualified marriage counselors could mean not only intensified personal tragedy but also a complete waste of money.

In addition, there now are thousands of unqualified "hypnosis experts" practicing a decidedly dangerous technique that relatively few physicians actually are trained and qualified to use.

And, says Mrs. Rockefeller, "We can all look with alarm upon the growing participation of chiropractors in treating mental problems."

Most Tragic Form

But perhaps the biggest and most tragic single form of mental realth quackery is the "cure" for mental retardation. The extent of quackery in this area is suggested by the fact that some 5 million Americans have now been diagnosed as retarded — with another 126,000 born each year.

Among the ineffective or unproven remedies for retardation cited by the American Medical Association are "celluler therapy" (the injection of embryonic cells from freshly killed animals) to combat mongolism and skull massage.

Another form of mental health fraud is the sensationally advertised package "cure" for alcoholism — frequently a "secret" concoction. But, says the AMA, "Recovery from this disease is dependent upon the individual's sincere desire to stop drinking, and his willingness to accept help from physicians, the clergy, Alcoholic Anonymous and other reliable counselors."

To avoid mental health quacks and phony treatments, consult your family physician, your local or state medical society or mental health association, recognized family service agencies —or a qualified psychotherapist.

Tomorrow: Weight Reduction and Cosmetic Quackery.

Old Injury Blamed for Gout Caused Swelling

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M. D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Last week my husband's ankle swelled suddenly, as it had twice before.

Dr. Molner

We thought it was from an old injury, but the doctor says it is gout.

Can one ever be cured of it? How important is diet? Can the disease be controlled or will it worsen with age and cripple him? I gather that gout comes from intemperate eating and drinking, but we always have three ordinary meals a day and he drinks nothing stronger than beer. — Mrs. R.O.

Nobody is ever cured of gout, but with modern drugs it is possible to control the disease so well that patients go for years without another attack.

There used to be a belief that intemperate eating and drinking caused gout, but this now is found to be in error. Gout is an inability of the system to dispose of enough uric acid, so it forms in crystals in the joints or elsewhere, and can be very painful.

It is true that too much rich food as well as alcohol can bring on an attack, but that is quite different from causing the disease.

You should read my booklet, "The Modern Way To Treat Gout," which you can obtain by sending 20 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of this newspaper. It will explain how modern drugs keep the uric acid level low and thus protect the patient from attacks.

With this type of treatment, you need have no fear that gout will turn into a crippling disease. If a patient is reasonably moderate in his eating, that is adequate. Extremely rigid diet no longer appears necessary for most gout patients.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please explain why I cannot wear costume jewelry or metal garters without breaking out with a weeping rash. — Miss E.K.

It is an allergy of a type called contact dermatitis. There are different kinds of allergies. Some folks have hay fever. Some have food allergies. Still others break out because of contact with certain metals. Nickel is a common one, but other metals may be involved.

Sometimes a clear plastic spray or lacquer, to prevent contact of jewelry (or garters) with the skin can prevent the trouble. An outstanding case of nickel sensitivity was in a man whose finger tips broke out in a raw rash. The trouble was traced to jingling coins in his pocket. When he took care not to have any nickels there, his trouble stopped.
